Lame Crane Dies in Zoo

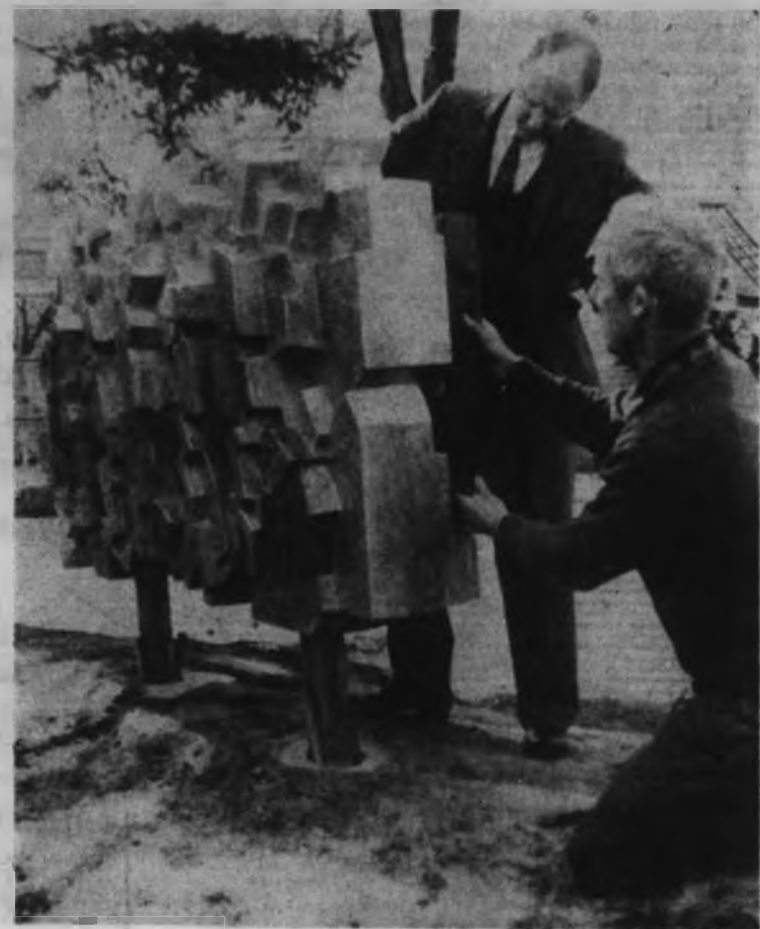

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 300-lb. whooping crane died Wednesday at the age of 18 days, after undergoing an operation for a leg ailment. The death of the baby whooper put the known world population of the bird back to 45, including 38 wild ones.

U.K. Denies Pressure On Market

LONDON (Reuters)—Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath Wednesday denied Britain's relations with the Commonwealth were being affected by "dictates" from the United States. Meanwhile, Prime Minister Macmillan is expected to announce to Parliament today the timing — widely forecast for Sept. 18 — of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference to discuss Britain's bid to join the six-nation Common Market.

HOPE FOR DECISION

Informed sources said Wednesday night it was hoped that by the time of the conference, negotiations would have enabled Britain to decide whether she could join the Common Market. In the light of her obligation to Commonwealth nations and to farmers at home, it is believed that the decision will be made by the end of the year. The sources said, with the possibility of a link with the Six as early as July of next year.

Many Measures Die

Divorces Stalled As House Rises

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 24th Parliament adjourned for the last time at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday night.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he will see Governor-General Vanier today to recommend formal dissolution to make way for election of a new Parliament June 18.

Parliament ended with a final plea from Mr. Diefenbaker that the New Democratic Party group permit passage of 327 divorce petitions.

NDP spokesmen remained silent and the petitions died on the order paper.

MOVED ADJOURNMENT

Therapies Veterans Minister Church, government house leader, moved formal adjournment to April 26. Naming a date is only a formality and does not mean that Parliament will resume sittings next week.

The House will come to its end with dissolution which will follow Prime Minister Diefenbaker's trip to Quebec City today where the Governor-General is in residence at the Citadel.

Columbia Plan Hailed

Prairie Expert Backs Export

A Manitoba power expert yesterday advocated a hydro-electric development program for his province which is almost identical to B.C. government power policies.

W. D. Fallis, general manager of Manitoba Hydro, said Manitoba should export its surplus power to the U.S. on the same sort of terms as B.C. is proposing to sell Columbia downstream benefits to Bonneville Power Administration.

This would enable Manitoba to develop 4,500,000 kilowatts of power years ahead of the time it would be economically justified for provincial consumption.

IDENTICAL TO B.C.

His proposals, outlined to the Pacific Northwest Public Power Association convention here, are identical to the B.C. thinking on provincial power development.

Mr. Fallis said he could foresee no problems in recapturing the exported power when it was eventually needed in Manitoba and said the B.C. "two-river" development program "seems to be logical."

J. V. CLYNE
... board shrinks

Clyne Showdown Ousts Four Powell Directors

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four directors were removed from the board of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. at its annual meeting Wednesday at the demand of chairman J. V. Clyne.

Mr. Clyne said the four, representing the Brooks, Scanlon-Foley family interests and all directors of the Powell River Company prior to its merger with MacMillan Bloedel, had sought to interest a select group of directors in delivering control of the company into the hands of a giant United States competitor, the St. Regis Paper Corp.

FINAL REMNANTS

In reply Conley Brooks, grandson of one of the founders of the old Powell River Co., charged that the dismissal of the directors had to do with the elimination "of some of the final remnants of the former Powell River Co."

LET MEMBERS DROPPED

Dropped from the board were: Conley Brooks, director of MB and PR since the merger and grandson of Dr. D. F. Brooks, who helped found Powell in 1911;

J. S. Sample, grandson of another Powell founder, M. J. Scanlon;

EX-MANAGING DIRECTOR

G. W. O'Brien, son of Joseph Manning O'Brien, a former managing director of Brooks, Scanlon, O'Brien, Co. Ltd. of Vancouver;

Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, whose father-in-law, Norman Letson, was in the original board of directors of Powell River and managing director of the company from 1911 until his death in 1938.

By PETER BRUTON

Premier Bennett last night strengthened reports of an impending provincial election with a pledge that removal of Lower Mainland bridge tolls was "now very close at hand."

The government's first step, he told the Vancouver Board of Trade, would be to remove tolls from the Second Narrows Bridge and donate Lions Gate Bridge as a free gift to the cities and municipalities concerned.

Observers took this as a government move to bolster sagging Social Credit support in the Vancouver area.

BENEFIT THOUSANDS

Removal of bridge tolls would benefit countless thousands of Vancouver voters.

Speculation that Ottawa would agree to B.C. demands on Columbia River development in the next few days came close on the heels of the report that Premier Bennett is prepared to call a provincial election before the June 18 federal poll.

AWAIT WORD

B.C. government officials were anxiously awaiting word from Ottawa that an agreement would be reached shortly.

Any agreement which would allow B.C. to start actual construction of the Columbia project under terms of the U.S.-Canadian treaty would obviate the necessity for a provincial election, officials said.

B.C. ADAMANT

Attorney-General Bonner strengthened the hope that an agreement was near when he said the possibility of a major understanding now exists.

It is understood that B.C. is remaining adamant in its stand that Columbia downstream benefits be paid in the U.S. at the equivalent of five mills.

'MODIFICATION'

On the other hand Ottawa is attempting to make it clear that there has been a "modification" in the B.C. stand which makes agreement possible.

The agreement could be an undertaking that the Conservatives, if re-elected, will ratify the treaty.

REQUESTS AID

This would enable work to start on the Columbia by the summer.

In his speech last night the premier said B.C. has requested Ottawa to give financial aid so that tolls may be removed along the route of the Trans-Canada Highway.

"We have reason to believe we will gain this co-operation," he said.

SECOND BRIDGE

At the same time he said that if the municipalities accepted the government's offer of Lions Gate Bridge as a gift and that it was decided some time in the future to build a second bridge at First Narrows the government would pay one-third of the cost.

Cancer Drama

Danger Lies Everywhere

By BON FULTON and KEN MacTAGGART
(Third in a Series)

So many real and suspected cancer-causing agents are encountered in everyday life only one conclusion is possible. You'll be fine if you don't breathe, don't drink, don't eat and don't work.

As science accelerates its search for these agents, a conclusion remains: some people are more cancer-prone than others.

There's nothing new in the fact cancer is an occupational hazard. It goes back to 1773 when chimney sweeps were found to be prone.

NAME A FEW

Today, the list includes sailors, asbestos workers, people who handle tar and pitch, others who work in plants making insecticides, linoleum, paints, dyes, nickel and chrome products and mineral oils, to name a few.

The Lawyers' Medical Cyclopedia lists almost every conceivable occupation (except lawyers) as a risk. Apparently no carcinogenic agent lurks in dusty legal tomes.

ONE OF MANY

Under those coming in contact with arsenic—which is only one of many carcinogenic agents—the cyclopedia names 72 occupations which are suspected of running a risk. All the way from airplane pilots to artificial flower makers to felt hat carvers.

Seek you a life in the open air, and it lists under groups recognized as exposed to arsenic: farmers, fur handlers and preparers, insecticide sprayers and dusts, miners of arsenic and copper ore, winery and vineyard workers.

ANFALTY ROAD

Go for a walk, and the Ohio State Medical Journal warns: "Dust from asphalt paved roads has been incriminated as carcinogenic."

Reach into the refrigerator for solace, and the U.S. Public Health Service cautions that, of some 800 to 1,000 food additives investigated, many contain suspected carcinogens and some have been labelled definitely dangerous.

Some synthetic muskings, thickeners, stabilizers, flavoring and coloring agents, synthetic sweeteners, preservatives and glazes are suspected.

Invasion Of Cuba Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spruille Braden, a former United States ambassador to Cuba, said yesterday an invasion by U.S. military forces is the only way to rid the Caribbean country of communism.

Braden told the Senate foreign relations committee in a prepared statement that approval of President Kennedy's aid to Latin American countries would be "a criminal waste of the taxpayers' money."

Too Bed

ACCRA (Reuters)—President Nkrumah Wednesday fired Kweku Edusei as Ghana's industries minister and took over the ministry himself.

The move was the climax of a wave of criticism against Edusei since the news of his wife Mary had paid $3,000 to a London furniture store for a multi-colored bed.

The official announcement said the government had also taken over the new Mansion Hotel built for himself on the outskirts of Accra.

Boy's Grilling on Politics Mistake Says Fulton

WINNIPEG (CP)—A police interview of a Winnipeg schoolboy has been termed a mistake by the RCMP and Justice Minister Fulton.

Alex (Sandy) Lamb, 15, was questioned by an RCMP officer at Vincent Massey High School here last Feb. 19 about his political beliefs.

Mrs. Mildred Lamb, the boy's mother, said the half-hour interview occurred a month after the publication of a letter from Alex in the Winnipeg Tribune.

The satirical letter attacking a right-wing viewpoint suggested that Santa Claus was a Communist because he distributed free gifts.

Quoting her son, Mrs. Lamb said that the RCMP officer, dressed in plain clothes, had harassed her and her husband as subversives.

Alex was told that the RCMP would make a point of branding him a security risk to any prospective employer unless he "forgot his parents' beliefs."

Mrs. Lamb said she sent a letter of complaint to Mr. Fulton. In Vancouver Tuesday Mr. Fulton was quoted as saying that a letter of apology had been sent to Mrs. Lamb.

Later in Winnipeg, RCMP

Superintendent J. S. Cruikshank said the boy was mistakenly interviewed by a junior officer.

"We have to get the authority of the parents before we can interview a juvenile," he said, "and we cannot do it at schools."

No formal disciplinary action has been taken against the officer, but he has "been told very definitely what our policy is."

Answering a reporter's questions, Mrs. Lamb described herself as a "worker for peace" and it was nobody's business but her own whether or not she was a Communist.

Bombing Ordered Say Sons

NELSON (CP)—The fraternal council of the Douglas Sons of Freedom sect ordered a bombing mission that ended abortively in the death of 17-year-old Harry Koutnikoff, an amateur court jury was told Wednesday.

The jury heard the evidence before it adjourned for just three minutes and returned with a verdict convicting Koutnikoff's four companions of illegal possession of explosives. (See earlier story, Page 3.)

Foes 'May Work Something Out' On Columbia Before Vote—Green

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said it "may be possible to work something out" by way of federal-provincial agreement on the giant Columbia River project between now and the general election June 18.

But nothing could be done about ratification of the treaty with the United States until a new Parliament was convened, the minister said. Told of reports B.C.'s Premier Bennett might call a provincial election if there was no federal action, Mr. Green gave a non-committal wave of his hand and said: "I can't help that. We're running the government of Canada, not British Columbia."

Repudiation 'Sure'

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Hurd, House leader of the O.C.P. New Democratic Party, predicted Wednesday that the federal government will repudiate the Columbia River Treaty with the United States before the June 18 federal election. "I have it on good information that the government will ask for a renegotiation of the treaty before the election," he said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Health authorities have driven Mr. and Mrs. Reader out of the crab business.

Inspectors called at the Reader crab kitchen on Six Mile Hill and delivered an ultimatum: Quit cooking crabs in a get outdoors and build an enclosed building—or go out of business.

The Readers decided to quit. "It wouldn't be worth our while to put in all kinds of expensive equipment," William Reader says.

Inspectors Worried

The inspectors didn't like the way that crabs were cooked outdoors and set on a steel draining-board to cool. They were worried about flies.

"We never get flies," Mr. Reader says. "We spray around, anyway."

"You know, most of the crabs the fish-shops sell—they're cooked in the open on the beach. We have rocks; we know exactly how long it takes."

"The crab fishermen, they'll sit around with a wash tub full of sea water bubbling over a fire. They don't care how long the crabs are in the water, as long as they turn red."

"They'll sit around and

Plus coatings on containers of everything from milk to cheese to citrus fruits and vegetables. Not to forget laxatives, cosmetics and nose sprays.

The Public Health Service says "the evidence on hand indicates several food and cosmetic dyes are probably human carcinogens and others are potential carcinogens."

So are some of the industrial wastes that get into public water supplies and foul the air the public breathes.

And then the health service says: "Cancer hazards of industry-related causation should not be considered as unimportant and unavoidable calculated risks of modern living."

"They are as amenable to sanitary control measures as communicable diseases have proved to be in past decades."

CAN CUT US OFF

It also believes "the argument that the prophylaxis of environmental cancers can cut us off from all our amenities and it is best, therefore, to enjoy life and take the small risks attached to these things reflects a philosophy which denies the best traditions of medical practice and public health."

Besides, a what-the-heck attitude would only "open the way for an indiscriminate introduction of any number of highly toxic and carcinogenic materials into the human environment."

Dr. Gaetan J. Jasmin of Montreal is one of thousands of scientists interested in the area of cancer proneness. He believes the development of cancer involves individual susceptibility.

HELPS EXPLAIN

The external agent, by itself, is not enough to cause cancer. It must also cause the tissues to react. All tissues do not react alike.

"This," he says, "helps explain why some individuals get cancer and some don't."

STUDY STARTED

It has begun a study of the 800-odd deaths from bone cancer in Canada during the period from 1936 to 1960. Bone cancer, a rarity, cause about 5 per cent of all cancer deaths in Canada.

The move leaves on the MB and PR board only one member of the Brooks family, Anson Brooks, son of founder Anson Brooks.

Mr. Clynne's demand was supported by 83 per cent of the shareholders present either in person or represented by proxy.

BOARD REDUCTION

The dismissals followed a routine amendment introduced by Mr. Clynne to reduce MB and PR's board to 22 from 27 in number.

Mr. Clynne said Conley Brooks had recently approached him with advice that a firm offer had been made by St. Regis for the purchase of 5,000,000 shares of MB and PR stock at a price equivalent to $115,000,000 in Canadian currency—$3 a share above the current market price.

REMAINING SHARES

Mr. Clynne said Mr. Brooks said the Brooks-Scanlon-Foley group were prepared to sell up to 2,500,000 shares and that Brooks, said Mr. Clynne, proposed to ask H. R. MacMillan, Prentice Bloedel and W. J. VanDusen, all members of the former MacMillan Bloedel board—to make up the remaining 2,500,000 shares required by St. Regis.

Mr. Clynne said that MacMillan, VanDusen and Bloedel had advised him in "the most definite and unambiguous terms" that they would not sell any of their shares or participate in the transaction.

SELECT GROUP

Mr. Clynne said that there is nothing to prevent a shareholder disposing of his shares but he added:

"It appears to me that a shareholder who has evinced an interest in selling out to a competitor, or has sought to interest a select group of directors in delivering control of the company to a competitor at a price which was not available to the ordinary shareholders, should not seek to represent the general body of shareholders on the board."

B.C. Lawyer 'Taken In' By Chinese

VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate N. J. Bartman Wednesday reserved his decision on a defence motion for dismissal of conspiracy and false declaration charges against Vancouver lawyer Milton Gonzales.

The charges were laid in connection with the illegal entry of Chinese into Canada.

Defence Counsel Hugh McGivern said Gonzales thought six applications brought to him by a Chinese businessman were for Chinese to get passports to leave Canada, not to enter it illegally.

"He was taken in by a group of rascals," said Mr. McGivern. "He may have been negligent, but he is not a knave."

complete impasse over passage of the 327 divorce bills.

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) and Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) blocked passage of the Quebec and Newfoundland divorce petitions on the grounds that the government had not lived up to a commitment to amend divorce procedures.

Mr. Churchill said the government had hoped to introduce certain proposals but it had not been able to come up with any solution to a most difficult problem.

STUCK TO GUNS

Mr. Howard and Mr. Peters stuck to their guns under a shower of government pleas, including one from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, that they allow the divorce petitions to go through.

Columbia Export

Observers believe Mr. Fallis has provided Premier Bennett with additional ammunition in his fight with Ottawa for permission to sell Columbia River downstream benefits to the U.S. for a 10-year period and on another 10-year recallable basis.

EXPORTED BLOCK

Mr. Fallis said the time period proposed by B.C. "is in line with the stand I have taken."

He told the convention, which ended yesterday, that Manitoba exported a block of firm power for use in North Dakota from 1936 to 1947 and "the supply was finally discontinued and was repatriated for use in Manitoba when the need arose."

He added: "While the supply contract was in effect, it was, I think, a sensible and profitable arrangement for all concerned."

IN U.S. INTEREST

Manitoba could produce some 4,500,000 kilowatts through the development of the Nelson and Churchill rivers, said Mr. Fallis.

"To develop these particular sites economically requires initial loads and load growths larger than we can presently foresee on our own system," he stated.

"It has therefore been natural for us to speculate whether it would be in the interests of our neighbors to the south to set back some thermal developments, meeting their interim requirements from large hydro developments in Manitoba, and then building more efficient thermal units at a later date."

He later told reporters that while there have been no negotiations with either the U.S.

Finally, tempers snapped on both sides.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he cannot place Parliament in pawn to the wishes of two MPs. The prime minister then left the Commons.

PASS APPROPRIATIONS

The house passed an appropriation bill for $138,416,981 to cover final supplementary estimates for last fiscal year.

On the heels of that move, only 17 minutes was required for passage of an interim supply bill of $1,704,710,347 to pay the government's expenses until the end of October. By that time the new post-election Parliament likely will be in session.

The interim supply bill covered five months' expenditures. Recently, Parliament granted two months of interim supply.

Uprooted Workers Won't Pay

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI)—The Ford Motor Co. Wednesday announced a $15,000,000 program to make its Windsor plant the largest and most modern in Canada while switching 385 jobs to Toronto.

All were guaranteed transfer expenses by the company under an agreement with the United Auto Workers Union.

House Just Shack Fraud Trial Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver woman testified Wednesday in the fraud hearing of three men and seven companies a property represented to her as a big house renting at $80 a month actually was a "shack with a broken-down floor."

Mrs. Katherine Jakobsen said she traded an apartment block for mortgages on six properties, cash and shares in a development company in a deal arranged by Arthur Bennett, 33.

Bennett, a former real estate salesman, lawyer John McKow and former realtor Robert Steele are charged with conspiracy to defraud the public of an estimated $1,000,000.

Don't Humor Suicide Threat Immediate Treatment Needed

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has threatened suicide for the last three months. Recently he said he will "blow both our brains out." Then he screams that he can't take it any more and runs into the bedroom, remaining there for hours. He is 60 and holds a responsible position. I have tried to humor him but I am now at my wit's end. Any suggestion that he go to a doctor is futile.—G.W.

"Humoring" isn't going to help such a serious situation. To be sure, some people use threats to get their own way, but too often, especially in mature people, such threats are not idle ones. Tell your own doctor the story, and let him help arrange such measures as may be needed to see that your husband gets immediate examination and treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl, 14. I have seen on my face. Now it is starting to clear up, but I have coarse, dark, enlarged pores. They look terrible. What can I do to get rid of them?—D.C.

Nothing. You can expect the pores to become smaller and less obvious as time passes. You are, of course, fortunate that the acne is clearing.

In some skins the pimples leave small scars. These also tend to shrink and become less conspicuous. If, after the end of adolescence, the scars are a cosmetic problem, consult a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon about smoothing the scars. But I'd certainly wait several years.

Dear Dr. Molner: In your opinion is it advisable to give tablets to high school athletes to help them gain weight and build muscles?—Mrs. L. J.

The drug you mentioned is a hormone, and I do not think it should be given to healthy young adults.

The weight that a body should carry can be achieved by wholesome, balanced diet, adequate rest and judicious training. These will build strong muscles. Weight is not necessarily muscle. For many sports, and for many athletes, more additional weight is not necessarily essential. If it is essential, increase the calories in the diet, but don't tinker with the body's metabolism.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a positive way to tell whether a man is the father of a certain child?—Mrs. W. G.

No, the best that laboratory tests can do is to reveal that he may be the father of a child—or, in certain combinations of blood types, say positively that he is not. No test yet devised can say definitely that he is.

G.H.: No "Jungle rot" is not a specific disease. It's a term applied to a variety of skin conditions in tropical areas. Treatment will vary according to the form of ailment involved.

Patriot Bemoans Fading Navy

LONDON (Reuters) — A naval expert fired a broadside yesterday at what he termed the inadequate warship building program of Britain's "silent service"—the Royal Navy.

"No one can be satisfied with our new construction during the last 17 years," said Raymond V. B. Blackman, editor of the annual Jane's Fighting Ships, the international authority on the world's navies.

Blackman said in an article in the Navy League's Journal that he had remained silent on this subject for 13 years since becoming editor of Jane's.

But as "a patriot, a navalist, a naval architect and marine engineer," he could contain himself no longer when he saw that the new construction provided for in the 1963-68 navy estimates amounted to "the brave total" of one assault ship and two replenishment ships.

Blackman said that since 1945 Britain has scrapped 15 battleships, scrapped or sold 30 aircraft carriers, returned 23 escort carriers to the United States, and scrapped or sold 54 cruisers, 280 destroyers, 240 frigates and escorts — besides returning 11 to the United States and 110 submarines.

New construction during those 17 years has been 35 frigates, 12 submarines and 200 coastal and inshore mine-sweepers — all comparatively small craft.

"We find that in one world emergency or disaster after another no British warships are near enough to give immediate succour and take charge as they did in former days."

Three-Stage Arms Cut Plan Laid Before Soviets by U.S.

GENEVA (Reuters)—A three-stage American disarmament blueprint under which nuclear weapons could be eliminated from the world in six years was presented to the 17-nation disarmament conference Wednesday.

The 18,000-word plan included several new concepts and proposals. But it was basically a development of the "program for general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world" laid before the United Nations last Sept. 25 by President Kennedy.

The plan gave the West a negotiating position at the conference, which began March 14, for the first time.

CALLS FOR ARMS CUTS

Stage one of the American plan called for a 30-per-cent cut in nuclear delivery vehicles and major conventional armaments. All armaments would be slashed to 35 per cent of originally-declared levels during stage two.

But stage two could not begin until "all militarily significant stages" had adhered to the treaty, seen as a phrase including Communist China.

By the end of stage two, the armed forces levels of Russia and the United States could come down to 1,050,000 men each.

In addition to elimination of nuclear weapons, stage three would include dismantling or converting military bases to peaceful use, and reduction of arms, arms production and armed forces to levels agreed to be necessary to maintain internal disorder.

PRESENT NEW IDEA

For disarmament purposes the American draft treaty presented a new concept which would divide up each power into a number of zones. Each side would have the right to pick a zone in the other side it would like checked.

A quick inspection then would be carried out to see if the activities in that district appeared to correspond with the arms cut obligations undertaken by the state.

As deeper and deeper arms cuts were made, the number of such zones checked would progressively increase. In the end, Dean explained, "when disarmament is general and complete, there would be inspection of the entire territory" of the various countries.

'Nothing To Hide'

CAPE TOWN (TNS)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd has announced he has invited United Nations officials to South Africa to discuss his government's dispute with the UN over mandated Southwest Africa.

South Africa has never agreed that the mandate over the former German colony, granted by the League of Nations after the First World War, came under the UN as successor to the league.

The prime minister said his invitation would show that his government "had nothing to hide."

Mrs. FDR Scores Hearing-Aid Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told Senate investigators yesterday that many deaf persons are cut off from a happy life because high costs make hearing aids "out of the question."

Opening the inquiry, chairman Estes Kefauver said the subcommittee would look into what he called the "staggeringly high" price of hearing aids. Kefauver said a double-ear hearing aid might cost as much as $700 or more.

The Election

ALL parties in the House applauded when Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the dissolution of Parliament this week and named the date of the federal election as June 18. Even if each had its own reason for welcoming a test at the polls this expressed the kind of unanimity appropriate to the situation.

The country at large is also prepared for an election, which in traditional manner comes after a four-year term of office and presents the electors with the opportunity of reaffirming the Conservative government or rejecting it. This is a virtue of the democratic system we enjoy.

The issues to be debated and decided upon, none perhaps more overriding than another, will come sharply into focus as the election campaign proceeds. They will be discussed in these columns as events bring them to the fore and as they are projected by the party leaders and local candidates. By the time polling date comes round the electorate at large should be fully aware of what is at stake and ready to make their choice.

The Conservative government can go to the country with confidence that its record can stand scrutiny and be endorsed. Its period of office has coincided with difficult economic conditions affecting all of North America but it has piloted the nation safely through a critical business recession and geared it afresh to cope with the problems ahead. In this respect its fiscal policies and measures to stimulate industry are now successfully bearing fruit, and the intensive study to ensure the protection of Canadian interests in view of the impact of the European Common Market is greatly to its credit.

In the realm of foreign affairs, also, probably the subject of most concern to all thinking people today, the record of the Diefenbaker government has been outstanding. Under the aegis of Mr. Howard Green this country has won fresh renown and appreciation among the middle nations for its undeviating efforts to mediate and reconcile the rivalry of the two giants of the cold war, and thus to pave the way towards disarmament and world peace.

It is as always for the Canadian people to make their choice but there is good reason to believe that the worth of the present government is recognized and will secure majority approval on June 18. In all probability Victoria voters will be able to hear from the lips of the prime minister himself an account of his stewardship and of the means by which he hopes to continue the good government which he and his colleagues have given Canada during the past five years.

Why Not a Holiday?

THERE shouldn't be any argument about a civic holiday being declared for the central day of the whole civic centennial year. "August 2 is the 100th birth date of the city and that is what is being celebrated. It is the core of the occasion."

It would be a poor situation indeed if that date should be just another day, with no special emphasis thrown upon it. As well actually have no centennial celebration at all.

Hundredth birthdays are something to be noted with acclaim and special festivity, as the family occasions of this nature make amply evident. A city is no whit different, or should not be, in this respect.

And how is the day to be properly observed, with parades and special events scheduled for it, if there is no civic holiday?

It would seem that the local interest tends to be subordinated by some circles exclusively for the benefit of tourists. Attraction there will be plenty for the many visitors who are expected and who will be thoroughly welcome. But one store-shut day will not seriously upset them, nor should it anyone else.

Any right-thinking tourist in fact would be astonished to learn that Victorians were deprived of celebrating their city's 100th birth date in appropriate manner because of his presence.

A city, after all, should first of all look after the primary interests of its own people.

A whole summer of shopping and holiday amenity will be available to the visitors anticipated as an overflow of the Seattle fair; one day's holiday isn't going to ruin the season. Nor do they all come here merely to shop.

The city council will be falling down in its responsibility to local residents if it does not proclaim August 2 as a public holiday. It expects everyone to participate in the whole centennial program. They cannot do this if the principal day of all is not made free to them.

Senseless Horsepower

A NEW CONGRESSIONAL investigation of the degree of emphasis the United States automobile industry is placing on speed and power in selling its cars is a welcome development, one that appeals to common sense.

How many cars are built today in the United States or Canada that cannot exceed the speed limits set for most of the highways of this continent, and the limits of safety? How many are produced that cannot accelerate quickly enough for all ordinary purposes, and too quickly in reckless hands?

In providing and advertising more power and more speed, the manufacturers exploit a human weakness: it is a natural instinct to want to be first, and to the unrestrained it apparently does not occur that no mass-produced car can "pass everything else on the road"—unless everything else on the road is being driven with less stupidity and better regard for the law, safety and the convenience of others.

True, less stress has been placed on performance of American cars in the last five years than was previously the case, and more on safety, reliability and economy of maintenance, among other virtues. This commendable change came about by agreement among makers as the result of a previous congressional study and warning that federal controls might be necessary in the horsepower race.

But the trend is again toward emphasis on speed and power, and if the present congressional investigation can bring about a renewed pact among manufacturers—or alternatively a measure of government control—it will be all to the good.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

BY TOM TAYLOR

WELL, all the doubts and hesitations are over. An election date has been set, and come June 18 unless you bog down on your duty you will turn up at the polls, and, in secret, mark your cross.

In secret. That's the magic of our way of doing.

A good way, isn't it? You can thus hug to your breast your political leanings, supposing you'd rather not talk about them. In a sense what you say in conversations that embrace the government might betray you but not beyond recall.

You might be saying one thing and voting another; and quite possibly lots of people do. That is one reason why straw polls are unreliable. The floaters are those not of dyed-in-the-wool conviction, and I suspect there are more of these extant nowadays than in the more distant past.

The my-country-right-or-wrong thesis when applied to political parties isn't so hide-bound as once it was. And if variety is the spice of life then this also accounts for the change-overs.

But the decks are cleared for a start and soon the hustings will ring with fervent pleas and promises.

Churchill had a different word for political campaigning. He called it a "wearing clatter" and deemed it a "melancholy" thought that over a period of 14 contested elections he had spent 14 months of his life doing nothing else.

There is no evidence to suggest he ever sought to avoid the clatter, however.

Churchill's heyday coincided with the mass election meetings which were a rage and fashion now out of date. The giants still draw the crowds, but a feature of modern election meetings is the small turnout of electors.

This must be very dampening on the candidates.

Some of it is their own fault even if they can't help it. The repetition grows boring. Yet few if any candidates can say something different every time they speak; that's too much to expect. Especially since they must cover much the same topics in each district they visit.

Still, the overall effect is to tire people out, including themselves. By the time the shouting is all over everyone has had enough and is glad to cast his ballot.

It becomes wearing all right.

Although we should spare a thought for the candidates; they are worn out far beyond their hearers. They must be.

It's a wonder though that it hasn't become the practice to cut down the campaigning to say, two weeks. That would be ample time to get their messages and promises across.

Of course in a sense an election never ends. Whoever loses starts immediately getting ready for the next one, and so does the winner. In between the official polls you'd often think it was election eve. The battle is never entirely broken off.

That you know full well if you follow the doings in our various parliaments.

This, of course, is the ginger that gives life to democracy. It is a bubbling way of life, politically speaking. And, of course, much preferable to a system that enforces silence or compels obedience to a single party whim.

Our bubbling represents freedom, admittedly a relative term but still potent with respect to personal political choice. And other freedoms are bound up in the secret and fearless vote we may cast in the privacy of a booth.

Democracy may stumble and grope its way to the solution of its problems but that is a precious right worth preserving.

It makes up indeed for all the wearing clatter that a political campaign produces. And after all an election does stimulate the local and national scene.

Even if it prostrates you enjoy it while it's on. You won't have another federal chance for four more years.

Moon Race Extravagance

Is the Journey Necessary?

By NORA BELOFF from Washington

NEITHER Soviet nor U.S. scientists seem to believe there is any real point in the race to the moon between their countries. An article by the famous Soviet physicist, Peter Kapitza, on "The Future of Science," coupled with talks with a number of leading U.S. scientists in Washington, Princeton and Harvard, leave one with the feeling that they are all echoing the old British wartime tag: "Is your journey really necessary?"

Kapitza's article is published in the current issue of The Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, and there is, of course, no direct criticism of the space cult. Nonetheless, Mr. Kapitza, who is director of the Soviet Academy of Science's Institute of Physical Problems, says he sees only one "practical result" from the conquest of outer space — the disposal of waste from atomic reactors. He does not describe how this would be done, but, short of having space garbage men, his idea does not seem to require manned spacecraft.

Speaking at a panel discussion on the changing role of scientists, Dr. Kapitza said: "I think it is terribly important to keep emphasizing for those of us who still go to Washington that you do not slag to outer space will be quite safe for mankind and will not be too expensive a solution, because the rockets are relatively cheap."

U.S. scientists similarly seem to be having doubts about the usefulness of sending people into space. What appears to bother them — and doubtless bothers the Russians even more — is the extravagance of the moon venture. The dean of the scientific and engineering department of Harvard University, Mr. Harvey Brooks, who also belongs to the President's Scientific Advisory Council, points out that within a few years the budget of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, in charge of the moon program, will equal or even exceed the whole U.S. expenditure on higher education.

Similar worries were expressed by the Harvard professor of chemistry, Dr. George Kistiakowsky, former scientific adviser to President Eisenhower and still serving on the Scientific Advisory Council.

What worries experts, however, is not the shortage of funds but of highly qualified people. It has recently been calculated that as a direct result of the government programs in nuclear energy, defence and space, the available technically equipped personnel amount to only about half the number needed in research and development. The Americans are organizing lavish extensions of scientific training in high schools and universities, and are experimenting with new methods of teaching, but it will still take many years before the supply matches the demand.

Many critics of the space program agree that it may yield scientifically and technically useful data, but they argue that the same results could be obtained faster and cheaper if the operation were detached from the man on the moon.

They say that the sensible way to proceed is to send instruments into space, and there is no immediate advantage in launching the heavy type of spacecraft needed to accommodate people — more so as these require colossal boosters, far too clumsy to have any military usefulness.

All the same, there are no signs, so far, that the president will let the scientific community divert him from his declared intention of getting an American "on the moon before the end of the decade." Millions of Americans, especially the young ones, will be bitterly chagrined if he gives way.

ordinarily, of course, there would be no question of the decision. The administration is Democratic. Yates is a Democrat — and an able one, too. Ergo, the simple cry would be: "Yates all the way!"

But these are not ordinary times and the realities involved here also are far from ordinary. For Dirksen is not just another Republican senator. He is also the Republican leader of the Senate and thus the most powerful member of his party presently holding national office.

As such, he has given President Kennedy vital assistance on the only issues on which any president really expects help from responsible leaders of his opposition — the grand issues of foreign and military policy, of national survival, which are bound up in the cold war. (On mere domestic questions the president owes Dirksen little, and vice versa.)

In the desperately critical area of world affairs, Senator Dirksen has been a rock of support. He has backed Mr. Kennedy faithfully in the Berlin crisis. He notably restrained Republican criticism over the lost patriots' invasion of Castro-Communist Cuba, rightly seeing this as not a Democratic disaster but rather a disaster for all the United States.

With the slightest encouragement, the Republicans in Congress might have torn the administration apart on foreign policy on half a dozen occasions — and the country along with the administration. But, far from encouraging partisan sniping, Dirksen put all his influence in precisely the opposite direction. He insisted upon Republican backing for, rather than Republican assault upon, a Democratic president. He helped Mr. Kennedy enormously recently on the UN loan issue.

All this was not because Dirksen loves Democrats. It was simply because he was aware that this country in any foreign crisis can have only one voice at a time, that of the president, whoever he may be and from whatever party. The alternative is to risk national catastrophe — the destruction of presidential authority before the outer world at a time when there can be no other form of authority.

Thus, it is not simply that Mr. Kennedy owes Senator Dirksen much in human terms. Far more importantly, the president has to face the fact that a determined drive to smash Dirksen might succeed all too well, and so smash that indispensable bipartisan link on high foreign matters which has thus far kept the nation effectively united.

On the other hand, Yates is unambiguously a good Democrat, and one strongly backed by the liberals in the president's party. If he refuses to "go all the way for Sid" there will be much intraparty casting of aspersions on the head of John F. Kennedy. But if he does "go all the way for Sid," he courts dangerous consequences extending far beyond the borders of Illinois and far beyond all party labels.

Hard Choice

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

A HARD choice now faces John F. Kennedy. It is between his ordinary partisan obligations as head of the Democratic party and his extraordinary bipartisan obligations as president of all the United States — including its Republican part.

The precise acme of this dilemma of competing duties is Illinois, but its significance is great and wholly national. The principals involved are Republican Senator Everett Dirksen and representative Sidney Yates. As the Democratic nominee, Yates seeks to take away Dirksen's Senate seat in the November elections.

What the president must shortly decide is this: Shall he follow the ordinary political course and put all the power of the White House behind a fellow Democrat, Yates? Or shall he reject this routine approach, for this occasion, and pass the word to the administration not to break its back for Yates?

Ordinarily, of course, there would be no question of the decision. The administration is Democratic. Yates is a Democrat — and an able one, too. Ergo, the simple cry would be: "Yates all the way!"

But these are not ordinary times and the realities involved here also are far from ordinary. For Dirksen is not just another Republican senator. He is also the Republican leader of the Senate and thus the most powerful member of his party presently holding national office.

As such, he has given President Kennedy vital assistance on the only issues on which any president really expects help from responsible leaders of his opposition — the grand issues of foreign and military policy, of national survival, which are bound up in the cold war. (On mere domestic questions the president owes Dirksen little, and vice versa.)

In the desperately critical area of world affairs, Senator Dirksen has been a rock of support. He has backed Mr. Kennedy faithfully in the Berlin crisis. With the slightest encouragement, the Republicans in Congress might have torn the administration apart on foreign policy on half a dozen occasions — and the country along with the administration. But, far from encouraging partisan sniping, Dirksen put all his influence in precisely the opposite direction. Today In History

By The Canadian Press

April 19, 1962...

An anti-Castro invasion of Cuba by a force estimated at 1,400 men, chiefly Cuban exiles, collapsed one year ago today — in 1961 — when the American-led rebels abandoned their beachhead at the Bay of Pigs.

1906 — Prof. Pierre Curie, discoverer of radium, was killed when struck by a taxi in Paris.

1904 — Fire on Yonge Street in downtown Toronto caused $11,000,000 damage.

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

Every animal welfare society knows there are thousands of kittens and puppies born at this time of year and 90 per cent are surplus.

This enormous over-population of the animal world is caused by irresponsible pet owners who allow their animals to breed and then keep all the newborn kittens and puppies. The solution to this problem lies with the individual owners to have their animals neutered and the newborn offspring humanely disposed of by a veterinarian or a humane society as there is no haven from suffering for these surplus innocent victims.

It is only the inexperienced or ill-informed who think licensing of cats is a solution. For many reasons it is unworkable and impracticable. Some cities in the U.S. which instituted such control had to repeal it as they were overwhelmed by rodents and the damage they wrought.

Not Without Cost

Like many of your other staunch readers I was most grateful for Saturday's editorial "Order Out of Chaos," realizing as I did when I read it that only after an impartial appraisal of Canada's place in the world now compared with the place it occupied in 1957 would have felt able, under a masthead proclaiming your political independence, to write in as forthright a manner as you did.

I wonder, however, if without jeopardizing my right to start each morning (except Monday) with your views on national affairs, I might point out that the order which Prime Minister Diefenbaker has brought out of the chaos left by Prime Minister St. Laurent has not been without some cost to the Canadian taxpayers, particularly those in B.C. For example, the same cotton shirts I used to buy in the chaotic days of 1957 for $4.95 now cost $5.95 and the English car I bought a few months ago cost me $400 more than it would have if I had bought it in Seattle, whereas in those chaotic days referred to the then-current model sold for $500 less here than there. Cigarettes are up from $2.95 to $3.25 a carton.

I can't help wishing that Mr. Diefenbaker could restore order without doing it at such heavy cost to those of us who live west of the Rockies.

G. F. GREGORY,
2990 Beach Drive.

Filth on the Streets

For the first time in years I was in the city on Saturday and was horrified to see the filth and papers on the streets. It blew right up in one's face and was most disgusting. Why cannot Victoria be clean as other cities are? It's the dirtiest place I have ever seen.

Forty years ago or more, if we happened to be in town in the late evening in Vancouver, we always used to see what we called the "watering cart"—the streets were washed every night. I've never seen one here. Here all the shop people sweep their rubbish into the streets and leave it to the wind to do the rest.

Freedomites Laugh At Grisly Picture

NELSON (CP) — Two young Sons of Freedom Doukhobors laughed Wednesday when shown a picture of a demolished car with pieces of human flesh on the road beside it.

The picture was of a car that George Postnikoff, 23, and John Evdokimoff were riding Feb. 15 when a bomb held by a companion exploded. The companion, Harry Kootnikoff, 17, was killed and his body reduced to what police described as a mass of pulp.

Postnikoff and Evdokimoff laughed when they were shown the picture after it and others were entered as evidence in assize court.

The pair are charged with Bill Golaeff, 20, and Peter Salikin, 20, with illegal possession of explosives.

Postnikoff refused to look at a picture of Kootnikoff's body.

Golaeff appeared in court wearing a hearing aid. Salikin's face was badly scarred.

Four Feet Down

Terrorist Bomb Cuts Kootenay Gas Line

GRAND FORKS (CP)—RCMP were investigating an explosion of a terrorist bomb which Tuesday night blew out a four-foot section of the Inland Natural Gas Company's 10-inch gas line about five miles east of this Kootenay centre.

Company regional manager Bert Evans of Trail said terrorists dug down more than four feet to place the bomb under the line. It went off about 9 p.m. and natural gas service in the Grand Forks, Savard and Nelson areas was disrupted.

Twenty-five company employees were called out to make repairs which were completed Wednesday.

While repairs were under way emergency gas was diverted into the line in an effort to keep up the dropping pressure.

The blast occurred in the Gilpin Flats area which officials noted was the scene of past terrorism laid to the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

The Inland Natural gas line was completed in 1957. Since then it has been struck four times by terrorists. The last incident involved blasting of the line near Nelson and cutoff of natural gas to the city in the spring of 1958.

'Four Teachers Not Dismissed'

MONTREAL (CP) — Marc Jarry, director-general of the Montreal Catholic School Commission, yesterday denied a report that four teachers who walked out of their classrooms last month have been dismissed.

The report came from Alme Nault, president of the Montreal Catholic Teachers' Alliance who said they were notified by telephone Tuesday night of their dismissal.

Mr. Jarry said "it is probably the result of misunderstanding."

The teachers walked out in protest after one of them, Jules Chatelet, was involved in a dispute with the principal of St. Nom de Jesus School over a Grade 6 boy who said he did not like the religious pictures hanging on classroom walls.

Doctors Set To Leave Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—The Leader-Post, quoting 63 doctors, most of them by name, says 38 of them will be leaving the province to avoid working under the compulsory Saskatchewan medical care insurance plan.

Many said they would leave immediately, while others said they would go as soon as they disposed of their business interests.

The government plan, to go into operation July 1, has been opposed bitterly by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons which represents the 900 doctors in Saskatchewan.

ALL BUT ONE
The Leader-Post says only 15 of the doctors questioned said they would stay. All but one opposed the insurance plan. Two said they would stay to fight against implementation of the plan, which Premier Woodrow Lloyd says will go into operation with or without the co-operation of the doctors. Six doctors had made no decision yet.

TOUCHES SMALL TOWNS

The newspaper telephone survey was confined to communities in southern Saskatchewan served by a small number of doctors. It did not include cities and the larger towns.

Entire medical staffs of some small hospitals indicated they would depart, leaving the future of these institutions in jeopardy.

The Death Doctors:

Thirty men were pushed into the laboratory, one by one; an orderly seized their wrists while a doctor dropped a spot of liquid on each bare arm, just above the elbow. It was mustard gas.

In two months 150 prisoners were put through the torment of experiments like these, and out of every batch of thirty, seven or eight men died in agony.

'Rat's Nest' Row

Student Ousted For Hair Styling

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 15-year-old redhead said yesterday she was told to get out of a suburban North Vancouver school and stay out until she altered her "rat's nest" hairdo and changed her short skirt.

FATHER'S BACKING
Despite the order of principal J. D. Siddons of Delbrook High School Tuesday, Evelina Madiuk returned to school.

She said she has refused to change her dress or hair style and has the backing of her father.

A second girl, Wannie Parr, 16, was also ordered out of her Grade 12 class. Her mother, Mrs. G. H. Parr said she returned with her hair down.

COMBED HIGH
The "rat's nest" is a styling in which the hair is combed high above the head.

Evelina said in an interview she has been warned for the last two weeks about her manner of dress and hair styling. Her father received a letter from the principal saying she had resisted all attempts to change and that if she came to school Tuesday without making the required changes she would be sent home.

SURVEY RELEASED
Mr. Siddons' orders follow the release of a Parent Teachers Association survey in which the majority of 2,287 North Vancouver parents favored standardized school dress.

NEW LOW PRICES ON ALL ATLAS TIRES

Esso dealers sell many lines of Atlas tires. There's a quality Atlas tire for every type of driving and every budget.

The prices on all Atlas tires have now been substantially reduced, with no reduction in quality.

For instance, the "first line" Atlas Flycor, the Atlas tire equivalent to those installed on new cars, used to list at $24.35 (6:50 x 13, tubeless blackwall). The new suggested retail price is $18.40. In the same way, the "third line" Atlas Mile-Pak, the Atlas economy tire, used to list at $15.95 (6:70 x 15, tubeless blackwall). The new suggested retail price is $12.95.

Atlas recognizes there are other tires on the market for $9.95 or less. They are called "fourth line" tires. And they are just that. The price reflects the quality. Atlas does not sell a fourth line tire because it has not found a fourth line tire that will meet Atlas standards of quality and performance.

The next time you're in the market for tires, see your Esso dealer first. Compare his Atlas quality. Compare his Atlas price. Compare his Esso-matic credit arrangements and his new Atlas guarantee. On any basis, you'll find his deal is "right with the times"—the top deal for you.

Giant Fair Takes Breath Away

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoor Editor

SEATTLE—Is the $90,000,000 Seattle world's fair worth seeing?

We think so... and if you live as near as Vancouver Island to Seattle, and especially if you have children, you should make a point of seeing it.

It will take at least two days to cover the fairgrounds—four or five days would be better—and it is expected the average person will spend about $5.50 a day at the fair, although, if you take in all the geyser rides and the girls shows, and do a little shopping, that figure could run as high as $100.

Gate admission to the fair will be $2 and that will include admission to 100 exhibits. Among the exhibits, only the Fine Art Exhibit, with a charge of 50 cents, will be an extra cost. Memorial rides, trips to the top of the Space Needle, rides on the Geyser, the girls shows, a visit to the $3,000,000 Japanese village, meals and cocktails will be about the only other extra ways to spend money, except for shopping along the foreign exhibit row. Some 30 foreign countries have exhibits.

For those who want to eat on the cheap there will be automatic vending machines, everything from hot dogs and hamburgers to full course meals.

Some 10,000,000 persons are expected to see the Seattle fair. Our world's fair tour with guide Bill Barry started in the National Aeronautics Space Agency buildings where it is expected the seven U.S. astronauts will be in attendance for at least part of the fair. This was a good start, because it is truly a peek into the space age theme of the fair. We saw an actual full-size model of John Glenn's space capsule with a dummy astronaut strapped inside.

First thing visitors see is an 180-foot Atlas missile. Saturn missiles, booster rockets and movies of the interplanetary exploration of the moon are all part of the exhibit.

Right across from the space building is the giant Washington State Coliseum, which rises 11 storeys under a huge

This is the fantastic gleaming aluminum cubic Floating City of Tomorrow exhibit in the Washington State Coliseum, where the world of the 21st century will be translated into

hyperbolic-paraboloid roof sheathed in gleaming aluminum.

Here, in 3,500 aluminum cubes, is the Floating City of Tomorrow which shows man at work, play, in the office and in all phases of life during the 21st century, including cars without wheels. A glass bubble takes visitors up to the exhibits and an electronically-controlled viewing system times visits to about 20 minutes.

The coliseum building itself covers four acres without a centre support, which in itself is something worth seeing. More than 180 motion picture projectors are used in the exhibit and more than 200,000 electronic processes are completed during a 20-minute tour.

The French space-age exhibit and a Library of Tomorrow exhibit, featuring electronic devices, are also housed in the coliseum, which after the fair will become a giant convention centre.

A General Motors display

Leaving the coliseum we saw the Republic of China exhibit under construction and Great Britain's exhibit (subject of another story) nearing completion.

The U.S. Science Exhibit and the Canada Exhibit, described in earlier exhibits, are musts for Vancouver Island fair visitors and will take half a day to see properly.

Next came the Boulevards of the World, where shops, restaurants, and native craft displays feature their items for sale from five continents.

A U.S. post office in the fair grounds enables visitors to send mail stamped direct from the Space Needle.

The National Cash Register Co. takes up a building the size of a football field and here fair visitors are able to match their skills with several kinds of electronic brains.

There are four licensed premises on the fairgrounds, and several restaurants to suit every pocketbook.

Big attraction for the women is the special Food Circus building which houses Century 21's giant birthday cake, with slices available for all fair visitors.

Telephone and telegraph companies have a whole building to display the voice communication services of tomorrow and from here we made direct dial calls to San Francisco and Milwaukee. Just to find out the weather—at Bell Telephone Co., expense of course.

Club 21 is an exclusive club on the grounds with membership costing $175 to exhibitors and $250 to non-exhibitors.

Right next to Club 21 is a church exhibit where there is a child centre where youngsters may be left.

Visitors are able to stand and get their pictures taken within 18 inches of 1,000,000 silver dollars, weighing 30 tons, but they will be closely guarded.

With each picture visitors get a souvenir silver dollar. There are 180 resting benches and 20 major rest-room centres on the grounds. For foot-weary visitors there are electric cars and rickshaws, guide services available to tour the fair grounds.

During the six months of the fair some of the greatest game shows in the world, from all continents, will appear in two new theatres, an arena, and an outdoor stadium, with prices ranging between 50 cents and $5.50 and free for daily events in the stadium.

Fun, Games Afloat To Aid Fund

The spirit of '68 will be revived again by Victoria Rotarians during Klonkita Nights to be held aboard the Princess Margaret at the Canadian Pacific wharf April 24 and 25.

There will be fun, games, a smorgasbord dinner which starts at 6.30 p.m. and continues until everyone is fed, and to make sure no one misses out, refreshments will be served from six bars throughout the ship. Dancing in the ship's ballroom will be to a six-piece jazz band.

Tickets for the event are available from any Rotarian at ticket booths in Eaton's or Standard Furniture.

Proceeds from the event will be donated to Goodwill Enterprises building fund.

How Those Old Fellows Could Draw!

At the Gallery
By Ina D. D. Uthoff

The important galleries are constantly adding to their collections. In this case it is the prints and drawings recently purchased by the National Gallery of Canada, that are now being shown here.

A small, but choice and costly collection is on our walls and will repay many visits.

There is a Rembrandt etching dated 1639 which is a very fine print. The centre portion in its richly grouped figures will bear the closest scrutiny and is in Rembrandt's finest style.

The Death of the Virgin is in a wonderful state of preservation though it must have been one of the first printings from the plate, as it has beautiful clarity of line.

The "inking in" is perhaps, not as rich as in much of Rembrandt's later work, but the delicate modelling is more apparent in the figures.

Next in interest may be an etching by Tiepolo of the Italian school. For those who like fine detail and tight drawing there is Antwerp Cathedral by the German etcher Wenzel Hollar, and of the British school, Rowlandson's Festivities at Ham House makes highly in the drawings in pen and wash.

There are so many different ways of using this medium. Pencil uses it over a foundation drawing in red chalk.

Veronese's drawing is also in pen and wash but there is a world of difference in the character of the lines.

How those old fellows could draw! The line flows, it lives and breathes.

One can know and appreciate an artist better by his drawings than by his paintings.

A sketch book can show so much more than the finished paintings do.

The "contrived" painting loses so much of its vitality as the keenest awareness exists in the drawing. In the first impact of the subject on the artist.

Pencil, pen, brush, etching needle or lithographic chalk, it does not matter which means of expression may be used, it is the force of the experience that is transmitted to paper, stone, wood or etching plate, that matters.

Drawing may be considered to be the beginning of abstraction.

The British school of the 19th and 20th centuries is well represented in this collection, though the Italian is more in evidence.

French lithographs supply a contrast to the line and wash drawings of the beginning of this century.

The contemporary artist has tion, the reduction of form to line without the emotional distraction of color, and no substitute has been provided by the abstract painter.

Canada's leading potters is being displayed in the main gallery of the Centennial of prints and drawings, a selection.

Impressive Concert

Schools Orchestra Doesn't Fool Around

By BERT BINNY

Apparently recovered from their recent adventurous and successful musical foray into Calgary, the Victoria schools' symphony orchestra staged a fine concert at Victoria High School last night.

This orchestra doesn't fool around. It attacks Bizet, Beethoven, Rimsky-Korsakov, Tchaikovsky and other musical giants enthusiastically and with impressive results.

SHEER SACRILEGE

Not long ago, schools' orchestras were unheard of and when, at school age, it was sheer sacrilege for students to attempt playing the musical giants. Now, happily, things are very different.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Fleisch

In my last column I wrote about The Science of Dreams by Edwin Diamond (Doubleday). There's more—much more—to be said on this fascinating subject.

As I reported, scientists now know that everybody dreams every night—a regular sequence of about five dreams during eight hours. They can tell whether a person is dreaming from the brainwave records; they can wake him up each time he's through with a dream and ask him what it was.

This is a brand-new tool for the treatment of mentally disturbed patients and the study of personality disorders. But that's not all of it. What time balancing?

Old Wives' Tales

Mr. Diamond doesn't say too much about these matters in his book. Of course, he mentions that from time immemorial people have believed in the significance of dreams and visions; and he has a short chapter on the intriguing subject of prophetic dreams. But he's inclined to dismiss such things as unscientific old wives' tales.

It can't be that simple. After all, people all over the world for thousands of years have had faith in dreams. The Inquies Indians and many other races have made dreams a basic part of their religion, convinced that they're messages from God.

And while Freud considered dreams the products of the uncontrollable id, mainly concerned with hidden sex wishes, other psychoanalysts like C. G. Jung and Erich Fromm have looked for the source of dreams in the collective unconscious of mankind, the common pool of the unseen spiritual universe we're all immersed in.

Day Residues

Modern researchers tell us that the first dreams of each night usually deal with so-called day residues—recognizable elements of what happened to the sleeper during the day. In the third and fourth dream, however, most of us dig deeper. Into what? Where does it all come from? What's the explanation for the many recorded telepathic dreams—for people dreaming of true accidents happening to their children or parents thousands of miles away? For prophetic dreams that turn out to be right? For the recorded cases of dream solutions to scientific problems?

We're many years away from the answers to these problems. But scientists are improving their techniques every day and accumulating more data on that great mystery, the stuff of dreams.

President Kennedy said of outer space that "this is a new ocean and we must sail on it." The inner space of dreams, too, is a new ocean and we must sail on it to unknown destinations.

Enough Nickel?

Russia Breaks Contract

TORONTO (CP)—A 1,000,000-pound a-month purchase contract between the Soviet Union and the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. has been broken by the Soviet Union with four months still to run. H. S. Wingate, chairman of Inco, told the company's annual shareholders' meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Wingate said the Soviet Union cancelled the contract last month after two years of uninterrupted deliveries, giving no reason.

Inco officials believe the Soviet economy now is saturated with nickel as a result of annual domestic production of 100,000,000 pounds and imports from Cuba.

The Russian surplus led Inco to believe the Soviet Union will not spend an estimated $200,000,000 to develop the Cuban nickel industry into a competitor with Canada, as was earlier reported.

OTTAWA (CP)—Judge William Arthur Schultz, 48, of the county court of Prince Rupert, B.C., has been named a judge of the county court of Vancouver. Justice Minister Fulton announced Wednesday.

The appointment fills a vacancy created by the death of Judge J. A. McGee.

The appointment was one of eight judges—six in Ontario and the other for Quebec.

Pilot Dies Of Injuries

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—FO Pilot Bernard Gillette, 38, injured when a Chipmunk aircraft crashed and burned at RCAF station Carleton Place, died Wednesday in hospital.

FO A. W. Thompson, 38, of Victoria, B.C., flying the single-engine aircraft at the time, was killed in the crash.

Thompson and Gillette were qualified instructors taking part in a proficiency flying exercise.

U.K. Accepts Standards

OTTAWA (CP)—The British Electrical Approvals Board has agreed to have the Canadian Standards Association approve Canadian electrical appliances to British standards. Trade Minister Hees announced Wednesday. Until now, Canadian manufacturers had to ship samples of their appliances to Britain for testing before selling them there.

Church Plans Mass Service

Sacred services in many city churches on Good Friday will recall the special significance of that day to all Christians.

One of the biggest services will be held at First United, under sponsorship of the Victoria Ministerial Association and with representatives of major United and Baptist churches as well as the Salvation Army taking part.

This service will open at 2 p.m., and continue until 5 p.m., with the congregation invited to remain throughout or to come in for any portion. Those coming late or leaving early are asked to do so during the singing of hymns.

There will be seven ministers speaking, each developing a theme on one of the Seven

Good Friday Programs Prepared

Words from the Cross. In order, they will be Rev. A. A. Rattray, Rev. E. A. Hornby, Rev. G. R. Easter, Rev. W. A. Williams, Rev. S. Parsons, Rev. A. C. Hamill and Rev. Laura Butler.

Three separate choir groups will take part. Singing for the first hour will be choirs of Fairfield United and Emmanuel Baptist churches; in the second hour, Metropolitan choir; and in the third, choirs from Centennial and St. Aidan's United.

Choirs will also enter and leave, processional style, during the singing of hymns.

Many of the smaller city churches will be having their own Good Friday services, some special youth services and others for the entire congregation.

Centuria Guild of Garden City United Church will hold a special Easter service Good Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the church, at Newwood and Carey Roads.

Featured will be presentation of a play, The Challenge of the Cross. There will also be several solo numbers and Easter hymns.

Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean will conduct a one-hour Good Friday service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Friday at 11 a.m.

Shorthand A 'Must' Says Panel

Five ex-commerce students told a dinner meeting of the National Office Management Association this week they felt present business training was adequate to meet today's business needs.

The majority of the panel, made up of Maureen Reid, Beverly Watson, Betty Burton, Shirley Crowe and Sharon Wilbur, agreed there was a lack of business telephone training and a necessity for higher standard university program English in offices where top personnel were well educated.

The panel admitted to a lack of confidence in office training when first entering office employment and agreed that shorthand was indispensable and would never be completely replaced by dictating equipment.

Cassius Clay No Muted Horn in Boxing's Brass Band

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—In an era of taciturn tigers, the fact is evident today that the loquacious Roman, Marcellus Cassius Clay, stands out like a lion in Times Square.

Yon Cassius, the 10th ranking heavyweight who currently is in Los Angeles to do battle with one George Logan, is a box fighter with a built-in sound track. By some, he is regarded as the biggest pop-off since Art (The Great) Shires.

As one who delights in vocal gymnastics, I find the young man refreshing.

Clay is the 20-year-old out of Louisville, via Route One to Miami, who shrugs off his Monday meeting with Logan as a workout. In looking forward, he summed up the public opinion that boxing is dying and without mock modesty, of which he has absolutely none, asserted with remarkable aplomb that he was the man to save it.

NICE TO HEAR

This well may be more than a one-man job, if not even impossible for a regiment. But it's nice to hear somebody in sports say something for a change.

The case in point is that athletes have become too darned reticent. Sit on the bench with almost any major league manager who has winning troops and, quite privately, he will point a scornful finger at certain of the opposition and tell you in detail why they should be paying their way into the park.

DON'T QUOTE THEM

But, heavens, don't quote them.

Now a fellow like Bill Terry may not be remembered as one of the most affable men or the most beloved who ever labored in the baseball vineyards but you have to cherish his vineyard question in the long ago as to whether the rival Brooklyn were still in the National League.

Baseball's Terry, and such loquacious genies as Dizzy Dean and the Jimmy Dykes who outlined Yankee manager Joe McCarthy's job as a push-button sinecure, are too sadly missing. The Alphonse-Gaston act has reached mealy-mouthed heights never before attained.

GOLFERS QUIET

It has been pointed out in this corner before that the golfing clan has lost its personality by shunning the 19th hole, where more reputations were made by admiring typewriters than ever were with a set of sticks. The current of the green—into the cup—back to the motel set can blame only itself for anonymity and the reason why you read so much of such holdovers as the Sneads, Hogans, Demarets, et al.

Clay is a throwback, fortunately, to the linguistic likes of Max Baer and Tony Galento. Two-ton Tony always figured to "madder da him," and if you are a prize fighter and you don't figure to do just that way it's better that you stood in bed to begin with.

Floyd Patterson, the current heavyweight champion in case you have forgotten, is a very nice young man and a much better boxer than most people realize. He speaks in a low, modulated tone and never has been heard to put the knock on anybody. He's had his chance, too, when you consider such of his "opponents" as Pete Rademacher, Tommy Jackson, Roy Harris, Tom McNeely and Brian London, believed to have been named after the falling bridge of the same name.

If those are legitimate challenges, as alleged, then maybe it is time that boxing was abolished before my 86-year-old aunt Sarah takes up the sport and hurts somebody. Speaking at a dinner, Clay began his spiel with the statement:

"If Floyd Patterson is in this room, please leave. The room isn't big enough for both of us." The former Olympic champion has won all 12 of his pro bouts but it is obvious that he talks a good fight, too. I hope nobody tries to change him. There are too many muted horns in this brass band now.

Soccer Cup Could Be Flop, Too

Final Tabbed 'Dream Match'

LONDON (Special)—England's soccer season is heading towards a frantic finish—and a dramatic Football Association cup final that is already being billed as the "dream match of the century."

A meeting between Tottenham and Burnley in the May final at 100,000-capacity Wembley Stadium has been the most talked-about topic of a topical "new deal" season.

As cup finals seldom bring out the best in teams and often produce an inferior brand of soccer to ordinary Saturday league matches, it could turn out to be the "disappointment" of the century.

CLASSIC FINAL

But there is no question that the feats of England's two football giants this season have given rise to the possibility of a classic final and left the nation's footballing public almost limp with anticipation of what could happen at Wembley next month.

While Spurs moved confidently into their fourth final and second in a row with a 3-1 victory over Mat Busby's young but fast-improving Manchester United, Burnley almost didn't make it.

HIG BLOCK

The northerners, all but certain of winning the league and earning a place in next season's European Cup competition, found struggling Fulham a major stumbling block.

The London club, making a desperate and apparently successful bid to escape relegation into the second division, had the best of the semi-final and a replay before finally bowing out 2-1.

Spurs gave one of their most cultured performances of the season in ousting Manchester United, a team full of promise for the past two seasons but only just beginning to achieve results. The Londoners ran Manchester dizzy with their calm yet devastating approach work and Busby's newest "babes" cracked under the pressure.

SPURS FAVORED

Tottenham will be slight favorite in the final if only because of its "big occasion" reputation. As well as trying to become the second team of the century to win the cup twice in a row (Newcastle did it in 1951 and 1952) Tottenham will also be trying to stop Burnley from winning the "double"—a feat accomplished by Spurs last season.

They will also be trying to make up for the bitter disappointment of their beating by Benfica of Portugal in the European Cup semi-finals. Unlike the cup match against Manchester, Spurs lost their poise and with it their craft in trying to wipe out a two-goal deficit in London.

GIVEN CHANCE

After "holding" Benfica to a 3-1 victory in the first leg of the semi-finals in Lisbon, Spurs were given a better-than-even chance of becoming the first British team ever to reach the final.

But they played desperate football against the talented defending champions at White Hart Lane, abandoning their skilled and cool methods for brute force and a haphazard attack that proved dangerous only on rare occasions.

TENSE MATCH

But it was hard not to get excited about the game and observers agreed it was probably the most tension-filled match ever played on English soil. Long before the teams took the field, balloons were cascading down onto the field from a stadium packed with 64,000 spectators.

At frequent intervals, thousands of frenzied Tottenham supporters would burst into song, chanting "Spurs go marching on" to the tune of "John Brown's body."

While Tottenham's failure against Portugal was viewed as another setback for Britain in international soccer, England boosted its World Cup hopes with an important if not impressive victory over Austria.

It was important because it was one of the final warmups for England before the opening next month of the World Cup tournament in Chile. The 3-1 victory was a morale-booster but the Austrians, who sided they weren't strong stayed out of qualifying play enough, offered little more for the cup because they con-

THE PALMER METHOD

"BELT BUCKLE POSITIONS"

Since it is body turn or twist which produces clubhead speed -- and greater distance -- anything to encourage a golfer to pivot well will help. One way to do this is to think of the position of your belt buckle.

At address, it should face just behind the ball for a drive (where the ball is positioned forward). At the top of the backswing, it faces the ground behind the ball at a 45-degree angle.

Probably the most important "belt buckle position" is at the finish.

At this point, the buckle should directly face the target. If it heads right of the target, your post-impact turn has been restricted. If it points left, then your swing has probably been too loose for solid contact.

'Silent' Heart Attacks

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — At least 10 per cent of people who have heart attacks don't know it, a heart specialist said Tuesday. Their attacks are "silent" or painless.

But because they are not getting treatment and taking care of damaged hearts, they run a higher risk of subsequent and fatal attacks, said Dr. Joseph F. Urist, of the University of Pennsylvania medical college and hospital here.

He urged greater efforts to detect these people through periodic electrical checkups of the heart.

BARKING, England—Ann Minchin, 4, and her brother Thomas, 2, never heard of Santa Claus or knew their birthdays because their parents brought them up "scientifically" in a house cut off from the outside world.

The story came to light when the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minchin, were fined and their children placed in the care of a local authority.

The children, who were suffering from malnutrition and were underweight, were not told of Santa or Christmas because their father considered these a "lie."

Lights in the home were kept burning and curtains drawn to keep out the "lies" of the outside world, the court was told.

MILWAUKEE—Joyce Kuehn, 23, was granted a divorce from her husband, Kenneth, 23, after testifying he refused to take a bath for six months.

Names in News

beat her during their honeymoon; refused to buy her food for two weeks. Bookkeeper said most of his wife's testimony was true but she "battered it up a little bit."

WIESBADEN, Germany — A U.S. air force court martial has sentenced Capt. Joseph Kauffman to 30 years of hard labor, and ordered him discharged from service for passing military secrets to East German Communists.

NEW ORLEANS — R. J. Gifford, Roman Catholic husband of a woman excommunicated by their church in a wrangle over parochial school desegregation has asked the same penalty. "If she is truly excommunicated from the Catholic Church," he wrote Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, "then I too, should be excommunicated... My beliefs are in exact concurrence with my wife."

VATICAN CITY—Pope John has received his fifth gift car since his election 3½ years ago. It was an Italian Alfa Romeo.

CAIRO—Despite his plans for a life of romance, Mohammed Owais was acquitted of slaying another Egyptian in a blood feud. Breaking into tears, he hurled himself under a car outside court and was killed, the newspaper Al-Ahram said. Apparently he feared kinsmen of his victim.

CAPE TOWN—Foreign Minister Eric Louw has accused Adlai Stevenson of bearing "hatred of South Africa."

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt. — Norrie Ross Leidy is sick of being invited to learn "how to become a leader of men." So Norris wrote a letter to army and marine corps recruiters which said: "I'm inspired by the opportunities you offer and if you can guarantee that I will become a leader of men or become a marine, I will enlist right away." Norris is a girl.

MONTREAL — Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, has submitted his resignation.

DALAVAN, Ill. — Frank Hatten reports success in his drive to add the word "quasiquintennial" to the English language. He said Wilfred Funk, of Funk & Wagnall's dictionary, wrote him, "to my amazement, you have created a word that will live in our language." Hatten said quasiquintennial means 125th anniversary.

LONDON — Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa flew into London to begin a three-week vacation and laughed off rumors circulating in Ottawa that she is to succeed George Drew as Canadian high commissioner in London.

Self-Styled Easter Parade

Fifteen Easter bunnies have gone by since Chicagoan Thomas Brennan, left, started decking out his family in annual wardrobe made by himself. Here Brennan parades in 1962 styles. Next to Mr. Brennan are his wife and daughters, wearing mint green wool with purses, hats, gloves and shoes to match. Girls range in age from 19 to 22, boys from 9 to 16.

Lightning-Rod Debre Set Longevity Mark

By DAVID GARCIA

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Former French Premier Debre headed for a country holiday amid speculation that he could be on his way to the presidency of the republic.

Debre will go down in history as a premier who held office longer than any of his predecessors in this century.

When he resigned Saturday to make way for former banker Georges Pompidou, a close confidant of President de Gaulle, Debre had been premier for three years and three months.

Debre's contribution to the fifth republic was more than staying power and faithful service to a rather aloof master. Much of the detailed work on the republic's new constitution was his. He had, as the Guardian of Manchester observes, tried to transmute British-type cabinet government into a French vessel.

The Micromyraxes of the powerful president tended to overshadow this.

Debre wanted to see the cabinet drawn largely from the elected body as it is in countries such as Canada and Britain.

As premier, Debre acquired some influence in handling most of the day-to-day business of government.

Politicians Plan Campaign Tours

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker will head toward his Prince Albert, Sask., home and Opposition Liberal Leader Pearson to his party's happy hunting ground in New Brunswick in the early stages of the June 18 election campaign.

Mr. Diefenbaker has revised his previous engagement list to permit him to spend one or two days in the central Saskatchewan constituency of Prince Albert, which elected him to Parliament in 1958.

TO PORT ARTHUR

His office said he will fly to Port Arthur to open the Lakehead sportsmen's show next Wednesday—a non-political engagement made weeks ago—and then speak Thursday, April 26, at a southern Saskatchewan district Progressive Conservative rally in Moose Jaw. From there he will go to Prince Albert.

Liberal Leader Pearson's plans still are tentative.

He may go first to Charlottetown, then spend one or two days at the end of the week in Newfoundland.

New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas, spending the balance of this month in Saskatchewan, is expected to leave his campaign tour first on those parts of the country where the NDP feels it has the best chances of getting members elected, an NDP source said.

In the last week or 10 days of the campaign, he will make a quick coast-to-coast trip hitting the big centres with the most impact just before election day, the source said.

Robert N. Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit party will begin campaigning Saturday in his home constituency of Red Deer in Alberta. He plans a major rally at Olds, followed by weekend conferences with Alberta executives.

Mr. Diefenbaker's campaign will be interrupted by a number of official engagements.

From Prince Albert, he is expected to fly back to Ottawa for conferences with Prime Minister Macmillan. The British Conservative leader is due here Sunday, April 29, and then goes to Toronto to address the annual dinner of The Canadian Press Tuesday, May 1.

Late in the campaign, Mr. Diefenbaker must greet Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, who will present new colors to the Black Watch Regiment of Montreal.

New Terminal Awaits Prime Minister But Will It Be John?

OTTAWA (CP)—The prime minister will officially open the New Lakeshore terminal of the St. Lawrence Seaway on June 23, five days after the coming election, Public Works Minister Walker told the Commons Wednesday.

Making the announcement, he glanced and nodded at Prime Minister Diefenbaker. But Paul Martin (L.-Essex East) noted that the election could result in a change of prime ministers.

"When did the minister of public works consult the leader of the Opposition (Lester B. Pearson) about this?" Mr. Martin asked.

"Which leader?" Mr. Walker retorted. "There are four of them over there."

Busy Visit Planned for Princess

Princess Mary, the Princess Royal and aunt of the Queen, will begin her official visit to Canada in Victoria when she arrives here direct from London June 13.

She will be a guest of Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes.

The Princess will review an honor guard at the airport, mounted by the Canadian Scottish Regiment of which she is the colonel-in-chief.

On June 15, she is scheduled to visit the Parliament Buildings and will there unveil a plaque in honor of men of the Canadian Scottish.

TO OPEN SHOW

She will also officiate at the official opening of the new provincial law courts building and is expected to open the Victoria Centennial Flower Show.

The following day, she will place a wreath at the regimental cross in Pioneer Square and will present new colors to the Canadian Scottish at Macdonald Park.

A reception and regimental dinner will follow.

Her visit to the Island ends June 17 with a service at Christ Church Cathedral.

The Prime Minister's office said from Ottawa yesterday that the Princess Royal will visit with the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross in Vancouver before heading east to Trenton, Ont., June 18.

She sails from Quebec City, homeward bound, on June 28. The other members of the royal family are scheduled to visit Canada in the midst of the election campaign.

Princess Philips visit will have little direct contact with the campaign, but the Queen Mother's itinerary could cause some problems.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is scheduled to welcome the Queen Mother when she arrives in Quebec City June 7. His presence, and possibly Opposition Leader Lester Pearson's, also may be required at a state dinner and reception at Government House June 11.

Both these events should come at the peak of what promises to be a hectic campaign.

Some observers had suggested that protocol would frown on electioneering in the midst of a royal visit.

Michener Hope

Permanent Speaker Urged for House

OTTAWA (CP)—Hope that action will be taken at the next Parliament to provide for a permanent Speaker of the Commons and that the first occupant will be Roland Michener was expressed Wednesday by H. W. Herridge.

The parliamentary leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group injected this in his remarks as he joined with Finance Minister Fleming and J. W. Pickersgill (L.-Bonaville-Two Rivers) in thanking Mr. Michener for his fairness as Commons Speaker since 1957.

The House of Commons in Britain has a permanent Speaker.

Election Enumerators Start Tour April 30

VANCOUVER (CP)—Enumerators throughout British Columbia will start knocking on doors April 30.

Spokesmen for returning officers in 23 federal ridings in the province expect they will have all voters registered for the June 18 federal election by May 5.

After the enumeration and 23 days before the election every registered voter will be mailed a list of names in his poll.

Students Reach For Top

A composite team of Greater Victoria high school students has reached the finals in the television show Reach for the Top on Channel 2.

Along the way they have picked up two $20 scholarships and one $80 scholarship for each of the five high schools; an encyclopedia set, a 10-volume set of Canadian stories and sets of records, also for each school.

PROUD OF TEAM

Team sponsor Eric Forster, principal of Mt. Douglas High School, is proud of his team come what may in the finals.

Members are Sylvia Stephens, Esquimalt; Michael Whitfield, Mt. View; Mary Baldock, Victoria; and Jane Turner, Oak Bay, with David Palmer of Mt. Douglas as spare and "mascot."

All are Grade 12 students at their respective schools.

In the finals, they will compete with teams from New Westminster, North Vancouver, West Vancouver and the Okanagan.

Middleditch Switch Stands Art on Ear

OTTAWA (CP) — A contemporary painting by Middleditch, an instructor at London's Chelsea School of Art, hung in the National Gallery here for a week before a spectator compared it with the catalogue print.

When he did, he noticed they didn't fibe. The print was okay. The painting had been hung upside down. Gallery officials, slightly embarrassed, turned it around.

Twin Role for Subs

Will Train and Strike, Says Harkness

By ED COSGROVE

The Royal Canadian Navy will soon have a submarine striking force, Defence Minister Douglas Harkness told the Colonist yesterday.

The three submarines currently under construction for the Royal Navy, which the defence department hopes to buy, will form the nucleus of that striking force. They will cost $10,000,000 each and are part of a $270,000,000 shipbuilding program which includes eight frigates.

This new aspect of the defence department's recent announcement of a build-up in navy strength emerged when the minister was asked whether the submarines, powered by conventional motors, would be used solely as targets to train sea and air forces in sub-hunting.

TWO FUNCTIONS

"If satisfactory arrangements are completed, these submarines will perform two functions. They will serve as a means of training surface ships and planes in tracking targets, and also in the role of an anti-sub weapon," said Mr. Harkness.

He said in effect the Canadian navy, whose traditional role has been as an anti-submarine service, would be "going underwater" after the enemy.

The minister said the submarines would be part of a three-way punch made up of subs, surface ships and aircraft that would be used against enemy undersea raiders.

Asked whether the submarines would be capable of catching and destroying high-speed nuclear submarines, the minister said:

"There is no perfect weapon against any type of attack." The Colonist telephoned Mr. Harkness after the defence department's submarine policy was questioned by some West Coast naval authorities.

Their doubts coincided with last week's announcement by the United States Navy that the sub-killing nuclear submarine Thrasher had successfully completed extensive sea trials.

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Defence production Minister O'Hurley indicated Canada won't buy submarines from Britain unless the U.K. makes purchases of equal value from the Canadian aircraft industry.

Will It Rain On Sunday?

SPENCER'S TRY TO BEAT WEATHER!

VICTORIA, B.C.—For the past two years Spencer's Stores Limited has been at odds with the weatherman on Easter. It all started in 1960 when Spencer's offered a 20% cash refund on ladies' millinery if it rained on Easter Sunday. It did rain and Spencer's, true to their word, gave each lady who purchased a hat in their millinery department a 20% rebate. Undaunted, Spencer's tried again in 1961 and lost once more to a wet Easter. Now this year Spencer's has extended their offer not only for ladies but for children's millinery as well. Commented one store official, "Surely it won't rain three times in a row!"

Penalties Spoil Minor Playoffs

Last Battle Of Budget Starts May 1

City council will begin its final onslaught on the provisional budget for 1962 at 3 p.m. May 1. It will be the first of a number of meetings which will be held in attempts to keep the mill rate to the "reasonable" level favored by Mayor Wilson.

Griffin Fights Back

'Gorge Site Refusal Costs City Money'

Angry at Saanich council's refusal to resume city-owned land on the Gorge to allow development of a tourist attraction, Ald. Michael Griffin yesterday came up with three fighting proposals.

By its refusal to allow the change of zoning for the site, Saanich council has prevented the city from gaining between $10,000 and $20,000 a year in rent and a share of the profits from the Sherwood Forest scheme," he said.

THREE THINGS

"There are three things that can be done. "Maybe Saanich council would like to rent the land

Reeve Murphy:

Saanich Gorge Hassle 'Typical of Area Split'

The hassle over Saanich's refusal to resume city-owned property on the Gorge is "typical of problems that arise from divided interests in an area," Reeve Stanley Murphy said last night.

The reeve said the angry reaction of Ald. Michael Griffin to the move, which resulted in loss of between $10,000 and $20,000 in expected annual revenue to the city from a proposed tourist attraction, is "perfectly understandable."

"Eventually," said Reeve Murphy, "either Saanich will have to buy this property and develop it, or enter a joint development scheme with Victoria, or let the city do what it wants with the land."

The answer lies, the reeve said, in amalgamation, or in setting up a combined Greater Victoria Parks commission.

Macfarlane Hits Socred 'Plunder'

If actions of the Social Credit government in the past session were an indication of progress, Alan Macfarlane, Liberal MLA for Oak Bay, said last night he wanted "no part of progress by plunder."

Mr. Macfarlane was making his seasonal report to members of the Oak Bay Liberal Association, and devoted most of it to a bitter attack on the province's placing of itself, through bills relating to take-over of the B.C. Electric and establishment of the hydro authority, above the courts of the land.

This, he said, was astounding; a matter of "disgrace to the members concerned and of shame to the citizens who elected them."

"What this means," he said, "is that a provincial government can exclude the federal government from powers granted to it at Confederation, and assume these powers for

'Lesson Learned'

Foul Bay Road Stays Despite Final Row

By BOB PETHICK

Through a snarl of motions, rescinded motions and out of order motions one fact emerged abundantly clear at Oak Bay council last night—Foul Bay Road will remain Foul Bay Road.

At a meeting of the inter-municipal committee Tuesday Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich said his council would go along with whatever decision was made by Oak Bay, pointing out that 70 per cent of the houses on the proposed University Way were in Oak Bay municipality.

Ideas ranging all the way from Coun. Fred Robinson's motion to re-name the whole of the street University Drive, to Reeve George Murdoch's simple, "We ought to leave it alone," were kicked around last night before the re-naming issue was finally dropped.

At one point in the discussion, Coun. Allan Cox said, "We've tried street, road, way, and now it's drive."

Coun. Fred Hawes suggested re-naming the road from Lansdowne to the university. "This," he said "would mean a minimum of address-changing, as there aren't too many people living above Lansdowne Road." He also added that he felt any decision to re-name the road should come from residents.

Reeve George Murdoch pointed out that there were already several streets in the municipality with names that changed in the middle. "The post office people are utterly confused with it."

Coun. Cox noted that at a previous meeting everyone seemed pleased with the idea of re-naming the street University Way. "I can't quite get over this change of face," he said.

He also got in the last word. "Let that be a lesson to us never to try change anything in Oak Bay."

Planner to Pick Hues

Dingy Victoria Promised 'Million-Dollar' Facelift

Dirty Buildings Shock Alderman

By TED SHACKLEFORD

A major survey of downtown Victoria to give the city a "million-dollar look" was announced last night.

"The basis of this long-range scheme is an integrated master plan of color designs for downtown buildings, street by street," Ald. A. W. Toone said. Ald. Toone is chairman of the city's urban renewal committee, charged with improving the city's blighted areas and revitalization of the downtown area.

City planner Roderick Clark will conduct the survey block by block, planning suitable paint colors, trim and signs for buildings, blending color combinations to give a harmonious effect, Ald. Toone said.

Better Example

"The library is an even better example—there we have the old building right alongside a modern addition. By using colors found in the old stonework on the original library building, the new addition blends well."

"This is what we want to do with all downtown buildings."

The plan will take several months to complete. It is a further step toward transforming downtown Victoria into a clean and delightful shopping area, he added.

Some work has already been done with street signs and

Votes Hunt Is On

FIVE NOMINATED

So far five candidates have been nominated by the various political parties to contest the two local seats—Esquimalt-Saanich and Victoria. Nominated in Victoria are Liberal Foster Iaherwood, a lawyer from Hope, B.C., and the New Democratic Party's Harry Fanthorpe, a machinist. In Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative George Chatterton has been picked to retain his seat by his party. Other candidates are Liberal David Gross, who ran a close second to Mr. Chatterton in the byelection last year, and Mr. Mitchell, a gentleman farmer.

Oak Bay Dogs Toned In?

Do Oak Bay dogs have radar sets? Oak Bay council last night was discussing a complaint about dogs when Reeve George Murdoch said that while leaving his house one day, he noticed the RCMP truck coming down the street, with not a dog in sight.

"Before it had gone half a block past there were six or eight dogs carrying in the street," he said.

"They must be equipped with radar," cracked a councillor.

Cadets Return From Cruise

Twenty-seven naval officer cadets arrived here yesterday aboard the frigate HMCS Sumner and Stettler after a two-month training cruise to the Hawaiian Islands, San Diego and Mexican waters.

Sculpture Stops Traffic

Gallery Gets Aluminum Art

A seven-foot abstract sculpture in gleaming aluminum was put on permanent display yesterday in the grounds of Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

Passersby stopped to stare at the sculptor, John Ritchie of Sidney, and half a dozen helpers including gallery curator Colin Graham, lifted the 700-pound piece into position. The sculpture, entitled Figures in Architecture, stands on sturdy pipe legs set in holes drilled in a rock outcropping rising two feet above the gallery's front lawn.

Mr. Ritchie's design won first prize of $1,500 in a competition sponsored by the Canada Council in 1959. The competition was thrown open to all sculptors in B.C., and several well-known sculptors in eastern Canada were also invited to participate. A total of 40 entries were submitted by 26 sculptors.

Mr. Ritchie said yesterday his design was based on abstract rendering of geometrical forms found in architecture. Design and execution of the sculpture took about two years.

First came a full-scale clay model, around which a laminated plastic shell was painstakingly built up. This shell, in eight sections, was then used as the model from which aluminum casts were made in a Victoria foundry.

The sections were welded together in a local shipyard, and the sculptor added the final touches with a hand file. Mr. Ritchie recently won a $3,000 Canada Council grant for his work.

Baby Son Saved By Sooke Mother

Prompt application of artificial respiration by a Sooke district mother revived her 15-month-old son last evening, and later the boy was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Allan Scott Kennedy, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kennedy of Kemp Lake Road, west of Sooke, was out in the yard with his parents and sister Donna, 10, and brother Grant, 7.

DIDN'T KNOW

At about 7 p.m., Mrs. Kennedy said, she suddenly noticed Allan was missing. "I asked the others where he was," Mrs. Kennedy said, "and they didn't know. My husband rushed to the nearby pond, which Allan hadn't even seen in the few months we've been on the place."

My husband found Allan floating face down in the water and pulled him out.

BREATHE AGAIN

"We thought he was gone, because he wasn't breathing. "While my husband rushed in to telephone for an ambulance, I tried artificial respiration, pressing on his back. I guess you just try what you have to, in a case like that."

Sooke volunteer Fire Chief William Stephenson said when he, Allan Smith and Ray Plunkett of the department arrived at the farm the child had just started to breathe again.

City Prosecutor Seans Spicy Newsstand Fare

City Prosecutor Angus Smith went home last night with two sexy books in his briefcase. An unnamed citizen picked up the books from a newsstand and submitted them to the police as a danger to public morals.

DESERVE CHARGE?

Mr. Smith is examining them to see if they are bad enough to deserve a charge under the obscene literature section of the Criminal Code. He is keeping the titles of the books to himself until he reaches a decision.

The law specifies that, to be classified as obscene, books or magazines must have as their "dominant character" the "undue exploitation" of sex—or crime, horror, cruelty and violence.

Several other people have telephoned the city prosecutor's office for advice about laying charges against the distributors of allegedly obscene books and magazines.

None has yet lodged a formal complaint.

Hollywood Beauty

Never Fear Growing Old Advises Ethel Merman

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—Ethel Merman, whose name on a theatre marquee means there is a hit show in town, is not a beauty and has never pretended to be one. But her forceful personality and distinct style have built a large and devoted following.

"Beauty can be a liability," she told me. "It opens many doors in the beginning, but as it begins to fade it can cause heartache."

"I like to use soap and water on my face. The moisture and the oils can be put back with creams later, but I like the way my skin looks when it is washed. You can ruin your skin if you don't get it thoroughly clean. I can never remember," Miss Merman declared, "going to bed without carefully removing my make-up."

This habit has paid off with Ethel, for her skin is clear and unlined. Despite the fact that she is a grandmother, she was recently named one of the most vital and young actresses in the theatre.

"I have no fear of growing old," Ethel confessed, "and I think that alone keeps me young. I find enjoyment without any concern for birthdays. I've never been happier than I am right now, and I'm better equipped to handle life or to sit down and face any problem. If people would try to do that, they would not have to run to a psychiatrist for help."

"It really is so simple. Happiness comes from not evading reality or responsibility. I used to take it hard when something unhappy happened to me, and I'd wear myself out worrying about it. Now I have a wonderful prayer. 'Dear God, give me strength to meet whatever comes and wisdom to know what to do at the right time.'"

"The people who learn to think constructively are the ones who get the most out of life," Ethel pointed out. "In some way, what you sow comes back to you. I see people who break all the rules and think they are getting away with it. But I know from experience that they are going to have to pay for it some day."

Ethel Merman tells secret of youthful energy.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about the employer who complained because all the young punks he interviewed were interested in "How much is the pay, how much time do I get off, and what is the retirement plan?"

Why doesn't this boss try interviewing older people—like 35 years and up? He might be surprised to learn that an older person may bring valuable qualifications to a job—such as experience, maturity and dependability.

I'm a woman past 40 who was widowed two years ago. My secretarial skills were top-notch in 1943 so I decided to go back to business school and brush up. After a few weeks of practice I was sharp as ever.

Armed with excellent (though dated) references I went out to find a job. For three weeks I tramped the streets and heard the same old line time and time again—"Sorry, you're too old."

Finally, a personnel director took pity on me after I tearfully confessed I'd been job hunting for three weeks and was beginning to lose confidence in myself. She agreed to give me a try.

Today I am managing the office. My boss says he wouldn't trade me for all the young girls in the office put together. Please print my letter. Perhaps some of those rockheads who turned me down will see it and get smart. —ENERGY PLUS.

Dear Ann Landers: I, an 18 years old and up to here with my mother. She has a talent for saying the wrong thing at the right time.

The other day I accidentally dropped a bar of soap in the wash basin and forgot to pull the plug. When my mother emptied the basin she found the soap, all mushy and mostly dissolved. She came out to the living room (with the by being more careful with the soap.

soap in her hand) and in the presence of a girl friend said, "Our last name is not Proctor nor Gamble. Please be more careful with the soap in the future." I almost died of embarrassment.

Why do mothers do this? What can I do to protect myself against her dumb remarks? Thank you. —JILL.

Dear Jill: Mothers do this because they are human. And you can "protect yourself" against her dumb remarks

Wedding of Interest In Salt Spring Church

FULFORD — Miss Lois Gwendoline Lee, eldest daughter of an old time family on Salt Spring Island, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee, was married to Mr. Peter Albert Nadin, of Canim Lake, B.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nadin, Cariboo, in St. Mary's Church recently.

In a beautiful setting of spring flowers and wild lilies, the bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a white full-length gown of lace over satin with lily-point sleeves. She wore a chapel veil and carried a bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley. The wedding music was played by Miss Susan Fellows of Ganges.

Archdeacon G. H. Holmes performed the marriage ceremony.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Barry Crooks, of Saturna Island, who wore pink nylon chiffon over tulle. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Misses Ronda and Elizabeth Lee, who wore gowns of yellow and blue, respectively, with matching bouquets of carnations. A tiny cousin of the bride, little Anna Mollet, was the flower girl. She wore pink and carried a dainty basket of spring flowers.

Best man was Mr. R. Nadin, brother of the groom, and ushers were Mr. Wayne Bradley of Ganges and Mr. Pat Lee, of Vancouver.

A reception was held in Fulford Community Hall where the toast to the bride was given by Captain L. Mollet.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. K. Lowndes, and Miss Sally Lowndes, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wakelin, and Mrs. Wakelin, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. F. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Tahouney, Mr. Hudson Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Syd Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Jones, Sr., all of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, Lulu Island; Miss Helen Sprott, Athabasca; Mr. and Mrs. E. Nadin, Canim Lake, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Freece, 100 Mile House, Cariboo; Mr. Pat Lee, Vancouver; Mrs. B. Crooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. Silvester, and Douglas, of Saturna Island; Mr. and Mrs. Backlund, Mr. Tom Carolan, Galiano Island, and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Moulton of Sidney.

The couple left on the ferry for Tsawwassen and are spending their honeymoon in the Interior.

On their return to Salt Spring they will live at

Ridotto June 9

The annual spring Ridotto, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service, will be held this year at "Sevenoaks," Blinksop Road, on Saturday, June 9.

Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Hudson To Live in Vancouver

Baskets filled with spring flowers decorated Centennial United Church for the wedding of Miss Gertrude April Hunter and Mr. Brian Knight Hudson.

Rev. Dr. S. Parsons officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. S. Llovel Darcus, East Sooke and Mr. H. Hunter, Ontario, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hudson of Ganges.

The bride was lovely in a full-skirted, waist-length gown of white tulle with inserts of lace sprinkled with diamonds at the neckline. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place with a tiara in fine leaf design and she carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink carnations and ivy. Capt. S. Llovel Darcus walked to the altar with his step-daughter.

Mrs. Gary Jones of Sooke was matron of honor and Miss Elizabeth Bauer of Steveston, Lulu Island was bridesmaid.

They wore dresses of hot pink nylon and lace styled with full skirts, scalloped along the edge. Their head-dresses of pink net were centred with a large pink rose and they carried bouquets of mixed daffodils and ivy. Louise Darcus was flower girl for her sister and was dressed in pale pink nylon with shawl collar and a petal clip on her pink velvet headband. She carried a blue basket filled with pink carnations, narcissus and ivy.

Mr. Keith Johnson of Montreal was best man and Mr. Ronald James of West Vancouver and Mr. Gary Jones of Sooke showed guests to pens marked with pink and white carnations.

Mrs. A. Wilmshurst played "O Perfect Love" on the organ during the singing of the register.

At the reception at Grouse Nest, Mr. Rod Knight, uncle of the groom, proposed the toast and read a telegram from the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Naim Blair of Glasgow, Scotland.

After a honeymoon in California and a visit to the World's Fair in Seattle, the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Naim Blair of Glasgow, Scotland.

The bride's going away costume was a green wool suit, white-flowered hat, matching accessories and pink-carnation corsage.

She's Only Woman Partner In Toronto Brokerage Firm

By GREG MACDONALD
TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-seven years in the brokerage business have reached an exciting climax for Mrs. Violet Cook who has been appointed a full partner in the firm of Doherty Roadhouse and Company.

The charming, trim and attractively grey-haired woman is one of the few of her sex in executive positions in the complex securities field and at the moment the only full woman partner in the brokerage business.

Mrs. Cook learned of her appointment in March when the company's board decided to increase the number of partners in the firm from 19 to 20.

"I never dreamed it would happen. When I first learned of it, it hadn't been made official and I couldn't tell anyone. It was a strain but you learn to keep secrets in this business. People tell you all kind of confidences."

Mrs. Cook entered the brokerage business in 1935 as a typist with the old firm of H. A. Hudson and Company. She later joined J. R. Timmins and Company and in 1945 went to work for Doherty Roadhouse in charge of the "cage," a brokers' term for the section handling securities.

Her big moment came in 1949 when "after some subtle suggestions on my part," the firm decided to try her as a saleswoman.

She successfully handled the company's Canada Savings Bonds drive and has been selling ever since as, in broker's jargon, "a customer's man."

Her job is to act as a middle-man between the firm and the the stock market and on buying and selling stocks and is paid by commission on sales that pass through her hands.

She says about half her customers are women but that it is her male customers who give her the most concern.

"The big thing is to make them forget you are a woman, and to convince them you are able to discuss their stocks with them as well as a man."

"Once you are over that hurdle there is no difference... except that a woman must prove herself a lot more than a man. Where there is money involved you don't care about the sex, you go to whoever can do the best for you."

"SELF-MADE WOMAN"

Mrs. Cook is well known in Northern Ontario regions where she spent time in the early 1950s, relieving managers of Doherty Roadhouse offices. She worked in such places as Timmins, Kirkland Lake and New Liskeard.

She is in her own words "a self-made woman." She took her senior matriculation at night after work and takes at least one course a year "just to learn."

She has taken courses in mutual funds and other subjects relating to the brokerage business and in public speaking and flower arranging.

"I think all women in business should take courses that help them to get ahead both in their own field and socially. You've simply got to work hard to get along in a man's world."

Mrs. Cook is also treasurer of the Toronto Business and Professional Women's Club and is a former president of the Toronto Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Her hobbies include working on her master's points in bridge, color photography, reading and driving "which I find very relaxing."

Mrs. Violet H. Cook of Toronto—full partner, (CP photo.)

The children love decorated eggs for Easter, though few of us have the talent to paint them as tradition demands. But we all could paint family faces! With a supply of hard-boiled brown eggs (closest to natural skin tones), Junior's school paints and brushes, we're all set to paint a face for each member of the family.

Use paint full strength from the color block, and starting two-thirds up from the pointed end of the egg, paint two thin curves in dark brown for the eyebrows. Under these two semi-circles with a dot of blue, brown or green for the eyes. Two small circles of black will be the nostrils with a smiling red cupid's bow mouth beneath them. Streak both light and darker shades of the natural color for realistic-looking hair.

Caledonian Society Party

Once a year the officers and members of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society honor their past presidents and life members at a special gathering, and this year the Glee Club is in charge of the evening's entertainment. A party will be held this evening at Hollywood House, where a large decorated cake will centre the main guest table.

Past presidents to be honored are Mr. David Belnave, Mr. Tom Wallace, Mr. James Henderson, Mr. James Marrs, Mr. Jack Robertson, Mr. Alex Stephen, Mr. David Hill, Mrs. Betty Marrs, Mrs. Lilly Collins, Mrs. George Dakers, Mrs. Blanche Grant, Mr. Charles Cameron.

Life members are Mr. J. Dirom, Mr. and Mrs. W. Henderson, Mrs. Jeannie Marrs, Mrs. Jessie Milton, Mrs. Annette Simpson, Mrs. Catherine McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. H. Boyd, Mrs. Nan Hill, Mr. and Mrs. D. Balnave, Mrs. Mary Berwick, Mrs. Jennie Hudson, Mrs. M. Buck, Mrs. A. Stephen, Miss Georgie MacKay, Mrs. Elizabeth Hopkins, Mrs. C. Ralnes, Mr. and Mrs. Ian Duncan.

Mrs. Helen Webster, Mr. J. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marrs, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. R. Collins, Mr. A. Pollock, Mrs. Mary McColl, Mr. J. MacDonald, Mrs. Nancy Smirl, Mrs. C. N. Moyes, Mr. C. A simple and delicious supplement for your dinner—lettuce with harequin sauce.

Harlequin Dressing with Lettuce

Have you a man in your family who simply loves salad as long as it's an ample wedge of head lettuce topped with a creamy, he-man type dressing? If so, get out the lettuce and be sure it's as crisp as your "lord and master" demands it—for we have a dressing that is sure to bring a big smile to his face. It is a combination of a lively flavored salad dressing blended with a bottled Italian dressing that has a sophisticated, tangy flavor. It's simply delicious and makes up in minutes because prepared dressings are used. Excellent alone, these two are even better in full-flavored combination! We've added stuffed olives and hard-cooked eggs to the velvety mixture dotted with the herbs and spices of the Italian dressing. Here's a dressing for your king, designed for his favorite salad.

HEAD LETTUCE SALAD WITH HARLEQUIN DRESSING

One cup salad dressing; ¼ cup Italian-style dressing; 2 tablespoons sliced stuffed olives; 1 hard-boiled egg, chopped; head lettuce wedges; bibb lettuce.

Combine ingredients and blend well. Serve over head lettuce placed on bibb lettuce.

The Camels Are Coming!

It Was Like a Circus the Year Victoria Was Born

By J. T. JONES

Victorians were just getting over the shock of seeing a lady in breeches, just a century ago, when the camels arrived.

This was no travelling circus. A man named Colbreath or Colbraith (or possibly even Galbraith) had imported them as the answer to freight-packing in the Cariboo. They could carry as much as 600 pounds apiece.

The steamer Hermann unloaded 23 of them at Esquimalt on April 14, 1862, whereupon every horse in the vicinity panicked.

Two Humps

They were Bactrian camels, the two-humped variety. A baby camel was born not long after they landed here, and judging from a discrepancy between the bill of lading and the report of the beasts' arrival, it is possible that another was born aboard ship.

The animals, said the Colonist, "are just now engaged in shedding the winter's coat of hair and present a very scaly appearance. . . . The strangers, who are guarded by a live Turk, are at the Half Way House."

TOM HARRIS
... greetings on gelding

(The lady in breeches by the way, showed up for the departure of the steamer Oregon from Esquimalt, to the consternation of the dockside crowd. She was very casual about the stares, and finally mounted a fine horse "with one pedal extremity on either side of the animal" and rode toward Victoria.

Way She Walks

(Ten days or so later, the lady in breeches did what everybody else was doing—went to visit the camels. She was recognized as a woman only by the way she walked. To this day, nobody knows who she was.

The camels, on display at Douglas and Johnson Streets, attracted another odd character, a real yahoo who got what was coming to him, as the Colonist reported with some relish.

Affectionate

"We noticed a gaily-dressed young stranger who seemed particularly interested in the baby camel and its fond mamma. To evince the lively and affectionate regard which he entertained for the parent and her lovely offspring, the stranger would occasionally drag the latter by the tail some distance from its mother; then he would put his arm around its neck and hug it until it was nearly strangled; then he would beat it with a small cane, and so he kept up his attentions until the poor little animal . . . sought refuge between its mother's feet.

"The young man next turned his attention to the mother, seized her by the tail, poked her with a long stick and kicked her on the feet and legs. . . . Finally her tormentor became still bolder and ventured to place his hand on the animal's snout and force her head up and down like the handle of an old-fashioned town pump. Indiscreet man!

Head of Steam

"The beast quickly raised her head to a level with her tormentor's eyes, and, with a noise resembling the rush of a full head of steam from a boiler, forced through her nostrils about two gallons of dirty water . . . for the stranger's benefit and instruction."

The young man fled just as the camel was all primed to let him have it again.

"Looking mean enough to sell out for two bits, the stranger drew a delicately perfumed handkerchief from his pocket," wiped himself off, made a sickly attempt to look unconcerned, and slunk off down Johnson Street.

Greatest Failure

It would be pleasant to record a happy ending to the story of the camels in B.C., but it didn't work out that way.

The venture's epitaph appeared in the Colonist the following October:

"About a dozen of (the camels) are all that survive. They are turned out to graze at the Forks of the Quesnelle River, and are considered the greatest failure of the season."

Data Bill Finally Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate gave final approval to a government bill requiring corporations and unions to disclose to the federal government statistical financial data and other statistics now regarded as private.

The bill was approved earlier by the Commons. It will receive royal assent along with a number of other bills before Parliament is dissolved for a June 18 federal election.

Charting Display At Fair

Nautical charts and methods of making them can be seen at the Canadian Hydrographic Service exhibit at the Victoria Exhibition May 14 to 19.

The booth will be located in the Victoria Curling Rink and will be staffed by departmental personnel who will answer questions.

Stationed In Germany

Recently appointed to RCAF duty in Germany was LAC James W. Mundie, 19, of Victoria. Son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mundie, 2875 Queenston, he was educated at Mount Douglas and Victoria High School. He will serve in Germany for two years.

Door Prize $1,000 Nightly

A $1,000 door prize will be given away each night at the Junior Chamber of Commerce Victoria exhibition May 14 to 19.

In previous years a car was given away in a draw during the final night of the show but a spokesman said yesterday the cash door prizes would stimulate interest in the show and pass a little more wealth around.

Among the highlights of this year's exhibition will be a greatly increased agricultural exhibit.

For those interested in things thrilling, a high-dive act has been signed. The daring diver climbs to the top of an 80-foot ladder and drops into a small, flaming pool of water.

In the dancing line all tastes are being catered to. In the early part of each evening folk dancing and old-fashioned dancing will take place followed by rock and roll and back-breaking twist sessions for the younger set.

In order to assure net proceeds reach the $25,000 guaranteed by Jaycoes to furnish a radio-isotope laboratory at Victoria University, exhibition floor rental space for booths has been extended to admit more booths. Some booths are still available for rental, a spokesman said.

Still under wraps is a plan to replace a house raffle held in previous years. "This year we plan to avoid legal problems and still produce an idea that will be of great public interest," said the spokesman.

Go Back to Brash, Young City In Colonist Centenary Edition

In the days when big Tom Harris, the butcher, rode his great gelding through the dusty streets of Victoria he was greeted by the townspeople on every hand. For that was a century ago, and Tom Harris, the butcher and horseman, was Victoria's first mayor.

His story, and a hundred others of Victoria early times, will be featured in The Daily Colonist's Centenary Edition to be published May 23.

And with these stories of another era are accompanying pictures which will portray the people of the times.

Staff writers and a selection of regular contributors will provide these features which bring back the color of the pioneer days, when the arrival of a steamer brought Victorians flocking out of the bars and offices to the dock; when hundreds of pounds were wagered on a horse race at Beacon Hill; when cattle were driven through Victoria streets on the way to the great farms that encircled the little settlement; when gold-seekers thronged to outfitting shops and men of the Royal Navy made the streets clamorous.

Those were the days of the bride ships, when James Douglas rode in state to the first sessions of the legislature and strode, proud and tall, his lovely acres on James Bay.

This Colonist Centenary Edition contains historical information and entertainment keyed to the date it celebrates: Victoria's incorporation 100 years ago.

Additional copies for friends and relatives can be reserved at newsstands, through carriers, or at the Colonist circulation office.

Sales Tax Removed From Texts

The provincial five per cent sales tax will be removed from all books used in courses in schools, universities, trade and vocational schools, according to a cabinet order.

Announcement that the books would be exempted from the sales tax was made during the recent session of the legislature.

A cabinet order yesterday said the books would include those used by students in schools up to and including Grade 13, colleges and universities, business colleges and trade and vocational schools.

Chamber Pressing To Pay Piper

Members of Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be asked to support a fund to keep the city's colorfully-clad piper meeting incoming ships again this year.

Lorna Donaldson, 3132 Davin, will swing into action for the first run of the Canadian Pacific ferry April 27, and take up her regular piping duties when school is out at the end of June.

"Okay, Ajax—stop hamming it up!"

Marriage, Divorce Easier for Reds?

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Radical changes in regulations for marriage and divorce in the Soviet Union are being considered by commissions set up by the Supreme Soviet.

The study follows severe criticism in the press in recent years of some aspects of the present marriage and divorce regulations.

For several years after the 1917 Bolshevik revolution, marriage and divorce were governed by exceedingly liberal laws. Marriage was considered legal even without official registration and divorce could be obtained by mutual request or at the request of one of the marriage partners.

COSTLY BUSINESS
Under a 1944 decree, marriages were considered legal only with official sanction in a registry office and divorce was made a difficult and costly business. The aim of the decree was specifically directed at preserving family unity. Special provisions were made for unmarried mothers but children of unmarried mothers were considered illegitimate—which meant there could be no claim against the father for support.

POOR DESERTED WIFE
It is this decree which has been the target of many articles in Soviet newspapers, which have related tales of the deserted "wife" and her family who cannot sue the runaway "husband" for alimony and maintenance.

Several years ago, new forms of marriage were introduced to make the act more solemn and memorable. Much of the press discussion has centred on divorce. Now, if a couple wants a divorce, they must apply to the local court. Officials then try to effect a reconciliation. If this does not work, the couple must return to court and also place an advertisement in the newspaper.

'Habituals' Become Neighbors

WINNIPEG AP1 — A penal philosophy that had its start in an Irish prison 245 years ago is having a direct effect on the lives of three Winnipeg men.

These three men have been classed as habitual criminals, and released from prison to live, work and play in free society.

The idea was based on the philosophy of an Irish prison warden named Crofton in 1817 and was the basis of the ticket of leave.

Crofton said: "Prisons should be reformatory and the prisoners themselves must show evidence of change of attitude, demonstrated by their behavior in prison."

It was from this humble beginning that the process of prison rehabilitation grew.

The three Winnipeg men a few years ago would have had nothing to look forward to but a life behind bars, no matter how well they acted in prison.

ADDICTED TO DOPE
Today they are free under the supervision of the National Parole Board.

There are only 56 "habituals" in Canada, all of whom have been given indeterminate sentences — life imprisonment — by the courts. Thirteen of these are in Manitoba.

All three men have an additional problem—drug addiction—but district NFB supervisor Dave Rempie says success in these extreme cases lies in the close liaison between the parolee and the supervisor.

Every three years the prison records of the habituals come up for review by the board. In this way, Mr. Rempie says, "the board would be able to release them if this was feasible without endangering society and in the interest of the prisoner."

The first of the men walked out of Stony Mountain Penitentiary in 1959 after serving nine years on his latest sentence.

He may be a neighbor, but you'd never know he was once an habitual criminal.

MONTREAL (CP)—G. W. G. McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, said Wednesday the idea that Canada cannot afford more than one airline is "riddled with fallacies."

In a speech to the Montreal Advertising and Sales Executive Club, he said the one-airline argument impresses many Canadians because of a "national inferiority complex."

"It is perhaps because of this that most Canadians outside aviation are astounded to learn that this country is the second largest air travel market in the free world."

LABATT'S APPOINTS EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENTS TO DIRECT EXPANDING OPERATIONS IN CANADA

H. E. HARDY

JOHN B. CRONYN

JOHN P. LABATT

J. H. Moore, president of John Labatt Limited, announces the appointment of H. E. Hardy and John B. Cronyn as executive vice-presidents in a re-allocation of senior executive duties made necessary by the growth of the company.

Mr. Hardy, formerly vice-president and general manager of Labatt's Ontario division, joins head office in London and assumes responsibility for the supervision of the brewery business across Canada. He was appointed manager of the Toronto brewery in 1949 and in 1956 became general manager of the Ontario division. He was appointed a vice-president in 1959.

Mr. Cronyn, vice-president production since 1956, also is president of Canada Duphar Limited and Labatt Industries Limited. In his new capacity he relinquishes most of his duties within the brewing business in order to develop these two subsidiaries during their important formative years as manufacturers of pharmaceuticals and nutritional additives. Mr. Cronyn retains responsibility for brewery construction and expansion and long-range research. He was appointed a vice-president in 1956 and elected a director in 1959.

John P. Labatt, formerly vice-president marketing, succeeds Mr. Hardy as vice-president and general manager of the Ontario division in Toronto. He joined the company in 1950 and in 1956 he was elected a director and appointed vice-president of the Winnipeg division. He returned to head office in London in 1959 as vice-president marketing.

Garden Notes

Don't Discard Daffs

By M. V. CHEENUT, PHIL

I have been getting quite a few letters from readers lately complaining that their daffodils are coming "blind" this year, producing lots of leaves but no flowers at all. Tulips and hyacinths will occasionally indulge in a mid-winter strike in similar fashion, showing no sign of sending up a flowering stem.

When the foliage is a good green color and obviously healthy, there is no particular cause to worry, and it would be short-sighted to dig up the bulbs and give them the old heave-ho over the back fence, as one of my readers suggested. Bulbs, in common with apple trees, will sometimes have an "off" year, and the cause is usually a combination of weather conditions during the previous summer.

Bulbs form their embryo flowers in the late spring and summer, following their blooming period, and they need plenty of sunshine during this critical stage. A wet, dull spell of weather will inhibit the formation of the flower bud deep within the bulb; so will an undue passion for tidiness—clipping off the foliage before it has completed its work—for all the sunshine in the world cannot plump up a bulb if there are no leaves for it to shine upon.

Bulbs that come blind from these causes will most likely bloom normally next year, often flowering better than ever as a result of their period of enforced rest. There are, however, some other causes of blindness.

Shallow planting is one. Tulips, daffs, crocus and hyacinths all tend to split up and multiply much more readily when covered with only a few inches of soil, and while you get a lot of bulbs this way from your original investment, most of these "splitters" are adolescents—too young for blooming.

When a bed of bulbs is behaving in this manner, it is best to fork them all out after the foliage has died down naturally—making sure they get their full ration of sunlight—and store them until planting time in the fall. When planting, separate the big ones from the babies, planting the blooming size specimens in the ornamental beds, and growing the little fellows on for another year or two in a nursery bed or in rows in the vegetable plot, where they can get themselves plumped up to flowering size without affecting the spring display.

It isn't necessary to wait until the leaves are completely dead and parched before lifting the bulbs—you can start forcing them out as soon as the foliage is more yellow than green. Dry off in shallow boxes or trays in an airy place, but not in the sun as you would onions. I lost a whole batch of beautiful tulip bulbs this way before I learned this lesson, as they turned all soft and mushy after a couple of days of baking in hot sunshine.

After a week of drying and curing, it is best to give the bulbs a thorough dusting with one of the modern all-purpose garden dusts which contain both a fungicide and a bug-killer, then store them in cool, dry conditions—a cool, airy corner of the basement works well. I haven't yet found any better system of storing small numbers of bulbs than to hang them from the basement rafters in old nylon stockings.

If you want your bulbs to continue flowering for several years without splitting up, better get them plenty deep when you plant. Nine inches is none too deep for tulips, ten for daffodils, six for hyacinths and five inches for crocus.

Critic at Large

Education Is No Luxury

Theodore W. Schultz, dean of economics at Chicago University, argues most cogently that the rate of economic growth of a country depends not so much on the traditional inputs of land, labor, and capital as on two inputs neglected until recently in economic analysis—that is, effort and capital expended to "develop the quality of people as productive agents and to raise the level of the productive arts." Or to put it in one word: education.

The effect of education on a nation's wealth and economic well-being, Prof. Schultz says, is not only totally misunderstood but indignantly rejected. There are, he confesses, "deeply held beliefs that it is degrading and morally wrong to look upon education as a way of creating capital. The very idea of human capital is repugnant to some because they believe that education is basically cultural and not economic in its purpose."

It is because of this repugnance, because of this idea that education is essentially cultural, and therefore, as it were, a luxury commodity, that the U.S. continues to pay teachers less than it pays coal miners and less than it pays oil miners and less than it pays steelworkers.

aid-to-education bill never got off the ground. The idea is deeply held that education is a cultural luxury and we will get around to improving it when we can afford it.

It's Prof. Schultz's theory, on the contrary, that we can't afford not to improve and modernize our educational plant any more than we can afford to let our productive plants become obsolete, that in fact our educational plant is the prime reason for our economic growth. This may be a hard-boiled way to look at it but I think our teachers and our educational plant will continue to be treated as luxuries until we put them on a dollars and common sense basis.

Since 1954, according to Solomon Fabricant, of the National Bureau of Economic Research, in a study on U.S. economic growth from 1950 to 1953, four-fifths of the economic growth came from "improvements in national efficiency," that is from improvements in technology, organization, and human capital—and only about one-fifth from the additional inputs of the conventional type: land, labor, and material capital. Education is responsible for four-fifths of the prosperity, that is.

for private circulation in 1958, Prof. Schultz examines the share in gross capital formation in the United States represented by high school, college, and university education. The share of gross capital formation represented by U.S. schools rose from 4.2 per cent in 1950 to 5.2 per cent in 1954. "The inference, thus, is that education has made an increasingly large contribution to output; that again, insofar as it constitutes a major part of the increase in human capital, investment in the human factor is a major component of economic growth."

This puts the cost of schools in a rather different light. If the prosperity of the nation is so intimately bound up in the quality of education, can the U.S. afford not to pay $4,000,000,000 more for schools? The U.S. certainly cannot afford a strike of teachers in New York City who are, after all, only striking for a wage rate roughly comparable to that of what the coal miners now make.

A strike of police or firemen is a strike against the public safety, but a teachers' strike is hardly that. By robbing them of all power to demand high wages we are just driving good people out of the public schools. And we can't afford that either.

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

That Clean Living Shows

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Elizabeth Taylor and Debbie Reynolds are each 30, but Debbie looks young enough now to be Liz's daughter. That clean living really shows. Richard Bartem's Ice Palace, by the way, is about to be untawed by Warners and released. First time around it was a $3,000,000 box-office bomb.

Robert Wagner writes from Europe that what happened to him in Hollywood was the best thing that ever happened to him. I suppose he refers to the breakup of his marriage with Natalie Wood.

Cesar Romero, Hollywood's most popular bachelor, has invited all his lady friends of the past 25 years to the party Dorothy and Harry James are giving him before he leaves for Spain this month. Through the years, when Joan Crawford comes to town, Cesar has taken her to all parties and premieres.

Candice Goodman has painted some terrific canvases of Anna Maria Alberghe in scenes and costumes of her Carnival hit, Claudio, a long-time director for Dada, will go to San Francisco when Anna Maria opens there in the show.

That Oscar nomination for Stuart Whitman is paying off already. He leaves May 19 for Paris to co-star with Simone Signoret in Tomorrow Is Another Day. Until The Mark brought him acclaim, Stuart's status here was "Oh, if Whitman or David Niven is not available, let's try for Whitman." Now the producers come to him first.

Shirley Jones describes her role with Glenn Ford in The Courtship of Eddie's Father, as "very dramatic." "Do you play a good girl?" I asked Shirley, who has tried and succeeded in getting away from ingenue parts. "Yes," she replied a trifle reluctantly, "but it's a wonderful part."

Lloyd Nolan could have had a role in Warners' story of John Kennedy's heroism in PT-109, but chose the British comedy We Joined the Navy (with Kenneth More) because "it will give my wife and me a chance to see London again, and after that we'll tour Scotland and Ireland and then the Isles of Greece, where we've never been."

Six Hours Fast

Scientists in Dark Lose Track of Time

CUNEO, Italy (AP) — Twenty scientists spending a week without clocks in a pitch-black cave have lost their time bearings so completely that some are mentally six hours fast.

Nineteen Italian professors and students and one Peruvian went down 1,200 feet into the cave near Cuneo last Friday to try to learn why animals keep their sense of time and men lose theirs in total darkness.

They took along five roosters, five hens and four rabbits. They'll stay there until next Saturday.

A team of scientists on the surface reported that not one of the cave-men had been able to guess the correct time in the five days since the experiment began.

The underground team reports by telephone, guessing at the hour. Nobody has lost track of the date yet. The experiment is sponsored by the Turin Mental Hygiene Institute.

Teachers to Vote On Status Step

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's 12,000 teachers will be asked to take the final step towards full professional status at their convention here next week.

They will vote on a plan to classify members of the B.C. Teachers' Federation into three groups — professionally certified teacher, teacher and probationary teacher.

Under the plan cards will be issued annually to show the membership category assigned each teacher.

A teacher judged incompetent will be issued a card stating "category withheld." Teachers approved of the plan is principle at the 1961 convention. This year they will be asked to amend the constitution so the plan can go into effect immediately.

The federation plans to establish a board of admissions and review to rule on the categories in which teachers will be placed.

Two thousand teachers are expected to attend the convention Monday through Thursday.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Arthur Lumsdaine, professor of education at the University of California at Los Angeles. He will talk about machine teaching and programmed learning.

Gambling Boss Tipped Off

By JOHN LeBLANC
TORONTO (CP) — Gambling boss Vincent Feeley had access to confidential information given the head of the Ontario Provincial Police in 1956, the royal commission on crime was told Wednesday.

Chief Constable W. Jack Shrubbs of Peterborough — then an OPP anti-gambling squad corporal — gave this evidence and also told the commission that Feeley informed him one inspector would "do anything for a dollar" and a squad sergeant, since resigned, was "taking money from every gambler in the province."

The inspector referred to by Feeley was Allan Stringer, then some fellow officers as passing tips to gamblers. Stringer at Peterborough, who has been mentioned in previous testimony has denied this.

Why suffer needlessly when Hem-Rid offers you so much? Get a package today. See for yourself how clean, clean and easy it is to use, how pleasantly and effectively it works, how much more comfort is waiting for you. Costs only a few pennies a day if you like it. NO COST otherwise as your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not 100% pleased. Ask at any drug store for Hem-Rid Internal Pile Treatment.

City Man Arrested

Narcotics Charge Read in Chinese

Chu Poy, 67, of 521 Figgard, appeared before Magistrate D.

G. Ashby and heard interpreter Harry Yip translate the charge into Cantonese.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrested him on the ferry from Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay and charged him with possessing 100 capsules of heroin.

In response to a request by the Crown, the magistrate remanded him until today without requiring him to make a plea or choose the way in which he will be tried.

The charge — possession of narcotics for purposes of trafficking — carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

The 100 capsules of heroin which police claim they found on Chu Poy's person could be worth $8 to $10 each on the illegal market.

Reserves Cut

Union Makes Urgent Call For Funds

An urgent appeal for financial and moral support was launched at a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council last night by an agent for the retail food and drug clerks' union.

John Nicol told the council his union's cash reserves had dwindled drastically over the past 12 months.

"We are spending money that took 20 years to accumulate," he said. "Within the past year, we have used up more than $30,000, and we need your help."

"Despite the company policies that plague us in the Hudson's Bay stores at Powell River and Kimberley—and the Woolworth's store in Port Alberni—we will continue to fight."

Complete disinterest in union affairs among the unemployed was scored by Robert Noble in a committee report.

"Many of the 2,500 men registered for benefits at the local employment office are without union affiliation. They are a dead loss to labor; they are even hostile to our philosophy."

A committee representing Island building trades unions reported on investigations it conducted into employment conditions on the Jubilee Hospital extension project.

Early concern to widespread layoffs among skilled tradesmen has given way to a greater feeling of security in recent days, Jack Driscoll said.

The council approved a motion protesting indiscriminate use of residential streets by provincial government employees who park their cars near the new courthouse building.

Lame Crane Dies in Zoo

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A seven-year-old crane died Wednesday at the age of 18 days, after undergoing an operation for a leg ailment. The death of the baby crane was the first of its kind in the world population of the bird back to 45, including 25 wild cranes.

U.K. Denies Pressure On Market

LONDON (Reuters)—Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath Wednesday denied Britain's relations with the Commonwealth were being affected by "distances" from the United States.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Macmillan is expected to announce to Parliament today the timing of a visit to the United States, widely forecast for Sept. 18, at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference to discuss Britain's bid to join the six-nation Common Market.

HOPE FOR DECISION

Informed sources said Wednesday night it was hoped that by the time of the conference, negotiations would have enabled Britain to decide whether she could join the Common Market, in the light of her obligation to Commonwealth countries and to farmers at home. If Britain decided to join the six, the earliest time when legislation could be introduced in Parliament would be at the beginning of 1963, the sources said, with the possibility of a link with the six as early as July of next year.

Cancer Drama

Danger Lies Everywhere

By RON FOULTON and KEN MACTAGGART
(Third in a Series)

So many real and suspected cancer-causing agents are encountered in everyday life only one conclusion is possible. You'll be fine if you don't breathe, don't drink, don't eat and don't work.

As science accelerates its search for these agents, a conclusion remains: some people are more cancer-prone than others.

NAME A FEW

Today, the list includes sailors, asbestos weavers, people who handle tar and pitch, others who work in plants making insecticides, luminous paints, dyes, nickel and chrome products and mineral oils, to name a few.

The Lawyers' Medical Encyclopedia lists almost every conceivable occupation (except lawyers) as a risk. Apparently no carcinogenic agent lurks in dusty legal tomes.

ONE OF MANY

Under those coming in contact with arsenic—which is only one of many carcinogenic agents—the encyclopedia names 72 occupations which are suspected of running a risk. All the way from airplane pilots to artificial flower makers to felt hat makers.

Seek you a life in the open air, and it lists under groups recognized as exposed to arsenic: farmers, fur handlers and preparers, insecticide sprayers and distributors, miners of arsenic and copper ore, winery and vineyard workers.

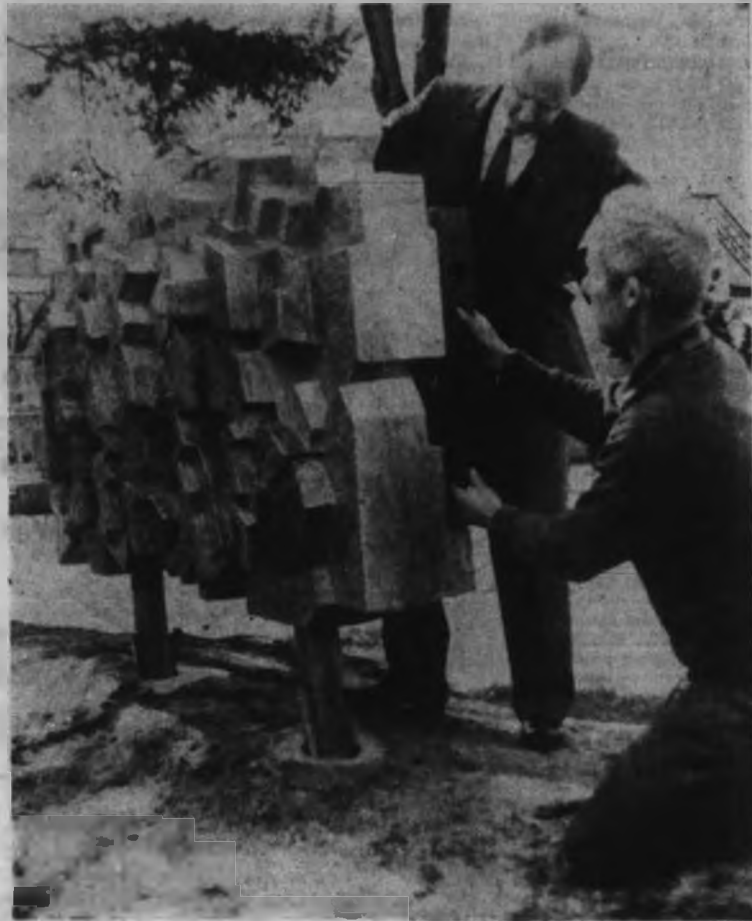

ANFRALY ROADS

Go for a walk, and the Ohio State Medical Journal warns: "Dust from asphalt paved roads has been recognized as carcinogenic."

Reach into the refrigerator for solace, and the U.S. Public Health Service cautions that, of some 800 to 1,000 food additives investigated, many contain suspected carcinogens and some have been labelled definitely dangerous.

Some synthetic muskings, thickeners, stabilizers, flavoring and coloring agents, synthetic sweeteners, preservatives and glazes are suspected.

U.S. Plan 'Big Step' But Tests Still On

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy described the U.S. plan presented at Geneva

Wednesday as a major effort for a breakthrough toward disarmament, but he saw virtually no prospect of calling off the "hottest United States atomic tests" in the atmosphere. (See Page 3.)

Kennedy volunteered his endorsement of U.S. efforts at Geneva in a press conference held shortly after the American delegation offered its plan to the 17-nation disarmament conference.

But reporters peppered the president with questions about nuclear testing, on issues in deadlock at Geneva while the U.S. prepares to follow Soviet lead by resuming its air shots.

Kennedy said on this point: "1. No specific date has been set for the start of the U.S. test series, to be held in the Pacific, but the general timing remains as Kennedy previously announced. This schedule calls for the first explosion before the end of this month—or within some 10 days."

"2. Of course we shall proceed with testing unless the Soviet Union agrees to the Western proposal for a test-ban treaty with international inspection."

Braden told the Senate foreign relations committee in a prepared statement that approval of President Kennedy's 10-year, $2,000,000,000 Alliance for Progress program of aid to Latin American countries would be "a criminal waste of the taxpayers' money."

The official announcement said the government had also taken over the new Manning Edson had built for himself on the outskirts of Accra.

Many Measures Die

Divorces Stalled As House Rises

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 24th Parliament adjourned for the last time at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday night.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he will see Governor-General Vanier today to recommend formal dissolution to make way for election of a new Parliament June 18.

Parliament ended with a final plea from Mr. Diefenbaker that the New Democratic Party group permit passage of 27 divorce petitions.

MOVED ADJOURNMENT

Thereupon Veterans Minister Churchill, government house leader, moved formal adjournment to April 26. Naming a date is only a formality and does not mean that Parliament will resume sittings next week.

The House will come to its end with dissolution which will follow Prime Minister Diefenbaker's trip to Quebec City today where the Governor-General is in residence at the Citadel for Easter.

Pledge to Drop Tolls Bolsters Vote Reports

Columbia Plan Hailed

Prairie Expert Backs Export

A Manitoba power expert yesterday advocated a hydro-electric development program for his province which is almost identical to B.C. government power policies.

W. D. Fells, general manager of Manitoba Hydro, said Manitoba should export its surplus power to the U.S. on the same sort of terms as B.C. is proposing to sell Columbia downstream benefits to Bonneville Power Administration.

This would enable Manitoba to develop 4,500,000 kilowatts of power years ahead of the time it would be economically justified for provincial consumption.

IDENTICAL TO B.C.

His proposals, outlined to the Pacific Northwest Public Power Association convention here, are identical to the B.C. thinking on provincial power development.

Mr. Fells said he could foresee no problems in recapturing the exported power when it was eventually needed in Manitoba and said the B.C. "two-river" development program "seems to be logical."

J. V. CLYNE
... board shrinks

Clyne Showdown Ousts Four Powell Directors

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four directors were removed from the board of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. at its annual meeting Wednesday at the demand of chairman J. V. Clyne.

Mr. Clyne said the four, representing the Brooks-Scanlon-Foley family interests and all directors of the Powell River Company prior to its merger with Macmillan Bloedel, had sought to interest a select group of directors in delivering control of the company into the hands of a giant United States competitor, the St. Regis Paper Corp.

FINAL REMNANTS

LIST MEMBERS DROPPED

Dropped from the board were: Conley Brooks, director of MB and PR since the merger and grandson of Dr. D. F. Brooks, who helped found Powell in 1911;

J. S. Sample, grandson of another Powell founder, M. J. Scanlon;

EX-MANAGING DIRECTOR

G. W. O'Brien, son of Joseph Manning O'Brien, a former managing director of Bloedel, Scanlon, O'Brien, Co. Ltd. of Vancouver;

Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, whose father-in-law, Norman Laing, was on the original board of directors of Powell River and managing director of the company from 1911 until his death in 1928.

By PETER BRUTON

Premier Bennett last night strengthened reports of an impending provincial election with a pledge that removal of Lower Mainland bridge tolls was "now very close at hand."

The government's first step, he told the Vancouver Board of Trade, would be to remove tolls from the Second Narrows Bridge and donate Lions Gate Bridge as a free gift to the cities and municipalities concerned.

Observers took this as a government move to bolster sagging Social Credit support in the Vancouver area.

BENEFIT THOUSANDS

Removal of bridge tolls would benefit countless thousands of Vancouver voters.

Speculation that Ottawa would agree to B.C. demands on Columbia River development in the next few days came close on the heels of the report that Premier Bennett is prepared to call a provincial election before the June 18 federal poll.

AWAIT WORD

B.C. government officials were anxiously awaiting word from Ottawa that an agreement would be reached shortly.

Any agreement which would allow B.C. to start actual construction of the Columbia project under terms of the U.S.-Canadian treaty would obviate the necessity for a provincial election, officials said.

B.C. ABANDON

Attorney-General Bonner strengthened the hope that an agreement was near when he said the possibility of a major understanding now exists.

It is understood that B.C. is remaining adamant in its stand that Columbia downstream benefits be sold in the U.S. at the equivalent of five mills.

'MODIFICATION'

On the other hand Ottawa is attempting to make it clear that there has been a "modification" in the B.C. stand which makes agreement possible.

The agreement between the two governments could be an undertaking that the Conservatives, if re-elected, will ratify the treaty.

REQUESTS AID

This would enable work to start on the Columbia by the summer.

In his speech last night the premier said B.C. has requested Ottawa to give financial aid so that tolls may be removed along the route of the Trans-Canada Highway.

"We have reason to believe we will gain this co-operation," he said.

SECOND BRIDGE

At the same time he said that if the municipalities accepted the government's offer of Lions Gate Bridge as a gift and that it was decided some time in the future to build a second bridge at First Narrows the government would pay one-third of the cost.

Fireball Strikes Utah

EUREKA, Utah (UPI)—A brilliant "fireball" flashed through western skies last night and apparently crashed in mountainous country south of Eureka, Utah.

The residents of this small town said they saw a "blue flash" and heard "a rumbling off in the distance" immediately afterward. Police Chief Joseph Bertrami said the crash was "very close" to the community.

Boy's Grilling on Politics Mistake Says Fulton

WINNIPEG (CP)—A police interview of a Winnipeg schoolboy has been termed a mistake by the RCMP and Justice Minister Fulton.

Alex (Sandy) Lamb, 15, was questioned by an RCMP officer at Vincent Massey High School here last Feb. 19 about his political beliefs.

Mrs. Mildred Lamb, the boy's mother, said the half-hour interview occurred a month after the publication of a letter from Alex in the Winnipeg Tribune. The satirical letter attacking a right-wing viewpoint suggested that Santa Claus was a Communist because he distributed free gifts.

Quoting her son, Mrs. Lamb said that the RCMP officer, dressed in plain clothes, had harassed her and her husband as subversives.

Alex was told that the RCMP would make a point of branding him a security risk to any prospective employer unless he "forsook his parents' beliefs."

Mrs. Lamb said she sent a letter of complaint to Mr. Fulton. In Vancouver Tuesday Mr. Fulton was quoted as saying that a letter of apology has been sent to Mrs. Lamb.

Later in Winnipeg, RCMP

Superintendent J. S. Cruickshank said the boy was mistakenly interviewed by a junior officer.

"We have to get the authority of the parents before we can interview a juvenile," he said, "and we cannot do it at schools."

No formal disciplinary action has been taken against the officer, but he has "been told very definitely what our policy is."

Answering a reporter's question, Mrs. Lamb described herself as a "worker for peace" and it was nobody's business but her own whether or not she was a Communist.

Foes 'May Work Something Out' On Columbia Before Vote—Green

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said it "may be possible to work something out" by way of federal-provincial agreement on the giant Columbia River project between now and the general election June 18.

But nothing could be done about ratification of the treaty with the United States until a new Parliament was convened, the minister said. Told of reports B.C.'s Premier Bennett might call a provincial election if there was no federal action, Mr. Green gave a non-committal wave of his hand and said:

"I can't help that. We're running the government of Canada, not British Columbia."

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Her-ridge, house leader of the O.C.F. New Democratic Party, predicted Wednesday that the federal government will repudiate the Columbia River Treaty with the United States before the June 18 federal election.

"I have it on good information that the government will ask for a repudiation of the treaty before the election," he said.

Kamloops' Popular Dancers

Indian Troupe

Girls Dance By the Book

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Book learning has made the 40-member girls' dancing troupe of Kamloops Indian School one of the most popular groups of its kind in B.C.

The girls, ranging in age from seven to 17 years, will appear in a special performance Easter Monday in Cowichan High School auditorium. The group was formed two years ago to dance for a St. Patrick's Day program in Kamloops.

SEVERAL BOOKS

Their teacher, Sister Mary Leonita, a nun in the school, had to go to several books to find out about folk dances and how to teach them.

The girls learned dances from Spain, Ireland, Italy, Mexico, Scotland, the Scandinavian nations and many other countries and their surprising authenticity made the troupe an instant success.

WINNING ALL

Soon, the girls were entering competitions — and winning them all. They have even starred at Vancouver's Pacific National Exhibition.

Rev. G. B. Dunlop, principal of the school and patron of the dancers, is proud of the fact the girls practice after school daily and make all their own costumes.

NO SHOWOFF

"They are gracious and charming," he says, "and there is no trace of a showoff among them."

One critic wrote: "The important thing is that these girls, with proper understanding and direction, reached professional heights not usually

NANAIMO—"You used to be a top athlete, a good lacrosse player," Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts told Michael Good, 22, in police court yesterday, "but what are you now?"

Good, of Nanaimo Indian reserve No. 1, was sentenced to three months definite and four months indeterminate in Oakalla prison farm for breaking probation.

ASSAULT CASE

First part of the sentence was concurrent with a term imposed in Duncan for assaulting a special policeman. Good was on probation here for creating a disturbance.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts told Good all his trouble appeared to come from excessive drinking. He refused to send Good, who has a wife and two children, to Haney Correctional Institute.

RECOMMENDED

But when Gerry Michael Wyse, 17, another local Indian, asked if he would be sent to Haney, the magistrate said he would recommend it strongly.

Wyse also was charged with breaking probation through another conviction in Duncan, for theft.

SENTENCE ADDED

He had been sentenced there to a year in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla and the magistrate added a one-year concurrent sentence with another year indeterminate.

He told Wyse to apply his time in jail learning a trade so he won't have to "depend on berry-picking and fishing" as his forefathers did.

$1,450 Given

CAMPBELL RIVER—Kenneth MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray MacMillan, has been awarded a $1,450 Canada Council grant for further English studies at the University of Toronto next year.

Parkville Stations Win Bid

PARKVILLE—A delegation of local service station operators have won a bid before village council to have present service station hours continued.

Council will draw up a bylaw in which present hours for service stations will remain in effect. It is felt this will be in the interest of the public in this area.

W. J. Cuthbert, municipal clerk, reports a supply of house numbers for the new house numbering system is on order.

Harmac Hurries Project

VANCOUVER—Pulp mill expansion at Harmac is being speeded for operation in 1964 and all of the new capacity will be needed, board chairman J. V. Clyne told the annual meeting of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. yesterday.

He also said a machine which will increase newsprint capacity by 140,000 tons a year will be in use by next April at Port Alberni.

Mr. Clyne disclosed his firm rejected a CPR offer last year to take control of several companies throughout B.C. and large timber areas in the E & N land grant on the Island because "the price was wholly excessive."

DUNCAN—Funeral will be held from Hirst's chapel at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for John Picken, a Cowichan Valley resident since 1949, who died yesterday in his 89th year. A native of Eaglesham, Scotland, he was trained in Glasgow as a school teacher and spent most of his life as a farmer at Castor, Alta., where he was on the municipal board and was schools superintendent.

NANAIMO—The local fish and game club begins the final class of the first season of its junior firearms safety course at 7:30 tonight. Interested persons should contact Vernon Hoff at SK 4-9379 or Tom McDonald at SK 4-3508.

Around The Island

DUNCAN—Mrs. Adele Sharp of Wharfedale Road led entrants in the Cowichan Valley Garden Club's spring show by winning trophies for high aggregate in points, most points for cut flowers and her narcissi display. Other winners were Mrs. D. Townsend, Mrs. O. Springfield and Miss Joy Stone of Duncan and Miss C. Craig and Mrs. H. Pease of Cobble Hill.

COURTENAY—Mrs. W. Coats of Gabriola Island has been elected president of North Island Women's Institute, with other officers, Mrs. C. Stewart, Little Qualicum, first vice-president; Mrs. R. Grey, Gabriola, secretary-treasurer, and directors, Mrs. W. N. Shepherd, Kye Bay, and Mrs. S. Swann, Denman Island. Resolutions passed urged division of divorce laws, teaching of French in all grades and use of Canadian textbooks.

DUNCAN—Speeding on Government Street April 15 cost Terry Jordan of Duncan $15 in police court yesterday. He pleaded guilty. Falling to yield the right-of-way to another car on Highway 1A April 5 cost Mrs. Pearl Holman of Duncan $10. She pleaded guilty.

Nanaimo Eyes Trailers

NANAIMO—A municipal bylaw governing trailer courts will be drawn up by the local advisory planning commission, it was decided at a meeting Tuesday. Decision followed an application by Mrs. R. Flewis for trailer spaces on five acres on Bradley Street.

The commission also learned the pair of 36-suite apartment blocks planned by Newcastle Realty near the new hospital site will cost an estimated $500,000.

Maple Bay Ruling

No Boat Ramp This Year

North Cowichan municipal council decided yesterday not to build a boat-launching ramp at Maple Bay this year.

Decision came after one councillor said Crofton Beach is much better suited for this purpose. Reporting on a recent meeting of the Maple Bay Ratepayers Association, Coun. Mrs. Elaine Dobbins said attending members were split down the middle about the ramp.

She said people at Maple Bay are very concerned about the safety of the swimmers and expected increased parking problems.

The ratepayers said that, if council decided to install a ramp, it should be south of the government wharf.

Coun. Gerry Smith pointed out the provided sum of $2,000 for the ramp would not cover construction there.

A request from the ratepayers for a stop sign at the junction of Chisholm Trail and Maple Bay Road was referred to the public works committee.

Council approved payment to farmers J. H. Dobbs and Rodger Davies of $50 and $30 respectively for lambs and sheep destroyed by mauling dogs. Mr. Dobbs lost three lambs and one two-year ewe and Mr. Davies three lambs.

Last Battle Of Budget Starts May 1

City council will begin its final onslaught on the provisional budget for 1962 at 2 p.m. May 1.

It will be the first of a number of meetings which will be held in attempts to keep the mill rate to the "reasonable" level favored by Mayor Wilson.

City comptroller-treasurer James Bransley has predicted a mill rate increase of about six per cent, but the final figure will depend on what council does with the provisional budget and a proposed borrowing plan to carry out capital projects.

School Costs Shift

Tax Rate Set at 31 Mills In North Cowichan Area

NORTH COWICHAN — The 1962 budget, brought down by council yesterday, totaled $1,385,891 with a tax rate throughout the municipality of 31 mills.

The school tax rate in the northern part, belonging to Ladysmith school district, decreased by 2.5 mills to 21 while the rate for Cowichan school district increased by 1.5 mills to 28.5.

The tax rate for general purposes dropped from eight mills last year to 7.5. This year's requirement for general purposes of $1,385,891 is $179,113 greater than the amount provided in the provisional budget.

Increases include: $2,400, police protection; $4,650, social welfare; $180,603, education; $12,118, tax levy transfer to special areas; $2,329, miscellaneous; $1,947, other departments.

COSTS INCREASED
Education costs increased by $68,767 in Cowichan and $69,523 in Ladysmith district.

Inclusion of the assessment of the B.C. Hydro Authority power plant at Bare Point helped reduce the tax rate for the Ladysmith school district. Municipal revenue for 1962 is not expected to exceed provisional budget and the increased additional expenditure for general purposes will be met by current surplus funds.

FROM FUNDS
A total of $63,011 will be used from these funds.

Officials said this could be met by an increase in taxation and or a reduction of certain expenditures.

Estimated revenues are: $278,000, municipal purposes; $1,420, utilities; $62,096, special areas; $10,730, local improvement; $705,603, schools; $27,500, licenses and permits; $11,000, fines, and $9,200, interest, tax penalties and others.

Huge Grant Increase To Benefit Saanich

Saanich will benefit from a whopping $94,144 increase in provincial government grants as a result of the 1961 census figures, it was announced yesterday.

The increase is 2½ times more than the total increase given the three other Greater Victoria municipalities.

Saanich this year will receive $437,608 compared with the $352,864 last year. Victoria will be paid $478,116 as against $475,796 a year ago; Esquimalt is up to $142,384 from $129,072 and Oak Bay has increased from $164,854 to $181,483. Other Vancouver Island areas, with last year's grants in brackets, are: Alberni $60,382 ($61,364); Courtenay $55,780 ($48,400); Duncan $38,713 ($41,923); Nanaimo $159,080 ($147,640); Central Saanich $47,232 ($38,632); North Cowichan $119,328 ($107,372); Campbell River $38,844 ($40,104); and Ladysmith $54,544 ($33,712).

Planner to Pick Hues

Dirty Buildings Shock Alderman

By TED SHACKLEFORD

A major survey of downtown Victoria to give the city a "million-dollar look" was announced last night.

"The basis of this long-range scheme is an integrated master-plan of color designs for downtown buildings, street by street," Ald. A. W. Toone said. Ald. Toone is chairman of the city's urban renewal committee, charged with improving the city's blighted areas and revitalization of the downtown area.

City planner Roderick Clark will conduct the survey block by block, planning suitable paint colors, trim and signs for buildings, blending color combinations to give a harmonious effect, Ald. Toone said.

"Look up above street level in the downtown area and you will be shocked by the dirty, dingy buildings you can find. This is a poor face for Victoria to show to the many thousands of visitors we get each year."

"We want downtown property owners to take note of what a coat of paint has done at city hall and at the Victoria Public Library."

"The two-tone painting at city hall has made the old building distinguished and attractive."

Better Example

"The library is an even better example—there we have the old building right along side a modern addition. By using colors found in the old stonework on the original library building, the new addition blends well."

"This is what we want to do with all downtown buildings."

"The plan will take several months to complete. It is a further step toward transforming downtown Victoria into a clean and delightful shopping area, he added.

Some work has already been done with street signs and street "furniture" such as new fiberglass litter bins.

One downtown block will be chosen as a sample of what the plan can achieve, Mr. Clark said last night. It will be planned first and property owners and merchants will be asked to co-operate in having the work done.

"If merchants will co-operate in this plan we can regain the charm of Victoria and emphasize the city's special flavor."

"The time has long gone when people had to shop downtown. Our downtown area needs the impact of an attractive atmosphere and this is the cheapest way to gain that impact, the million dollar look."

Votes Hunt Is On

FIVE NOMINATED

So far five candidates have been nominated by the various political parties to contest the two local seats—Esquimalt-Saanich and Victoria.

Nominated in Victoria are Liberal Foster Isherwood, a lawyer from Hope, B.C., and the New Democratic Party's Harry Fanthorpe, a machinist. In Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative George Chatterton has been picked to retain his seat by his party. Other candidates are Liberal David Groves, who ran a close second to Mr. Chatterton in the by-election last year, and Mr. Mitchell, a gentleman farmer.

Oak Bay Dogs Tuned In?

Do Oak Bay dogs have radar sets?

Oak Bay council last night was discussing a complaint about dogs when Reeve George Murdoch said that while leaving his house one day, he noticed the SECA truck coming down the street, with not a dog in sight.

"Before it had gone half a block past there were six or eight dogs cavorting in the street," he said.

"They must be equipped with radar," cracked a councillor.

B.C. Boosts Salaries For PUC, Deputies

The cabinet has approved pay boosts of $800 a year for B.C. deputy ministers and top government officials.

In addition members of the Public Utilities Commission have been given a pay increase. Chairman Dean Henry Angus has had his salary boosted from $14,400 to $15,000 and the three PUC commissioners — P.C.s George, Albert B. Jackson and Lyle Wickes—will receive $48 more annually, bringing their salary up to $12,480. Highest salary paid deputy ministers now is $12,000.

Baby Son Saved By Sooke Mother

Prompt application of artificial respiration by a Sooke district mother revived her 15-month-old son last evening, and later the tot was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Allan Scott Kennedy, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kennedy of Kemp Lake Road, west of Sooke, was out in the yard with his parents and sister Donna, 10, and brother Grant, 7.

DIDN'T KNOW

At about 7 p.m., Mrs. Kennedy said, she suddenly noticed Allan was missing.

"I asked the others where he was," Mrs. Kennedy said, "and they didn't know. My husband rushed to the nearby pond, where Allan hadn't even been in the few months we've been on the place."

"My husband found Allan floating face down in the water and pulled him out."

BREATHE AGAIN

"We thought he was gone, because he wasn't breathing. "While my husband rushed in to telephone for an ambulance, I tried artificial respiration, pressing on his back. I guess you just try what you have to, in a case like that."

Sooke volunteer Fire Chief William Stephenson said when he, Allan Smith and Ray Finlay of the department arrived at the farm the child had just started to breathe again.

U.K. Denies Pressure On Market

LONDON (Reuters)—Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath Wednesday denied Britain's relations with the Commonwealth were being affected by "dictates" from the United States.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Macmillan is expected to announce to Parliament today the timing — widely forecast for Sept. 10 — of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference to discuss Britain's bid to join the six-nation Common Market.

HOPE FOR DECISION

Informed sources said Wednesday night it was hoped that by the time of the conference, negotiations would have enabled Britain to decide whether she could join the Common Market, in the light of her obligation to Commonwealth countries and to farmers at home. If Britain decided to join the Six, the earliest time when legislation could be introduced in Parliament would be at the beginning of 1963, the sources said, with the possibility of a link with the Six as early as July of next year.

U.S. Plan 'Big Step' But Tests Still On

Wednesday as a major effort for a breakthrough toward disarmament, but he saw virtually no prospect of calling off the imminent United States atomic tests in the atmosphere. (See Page 3.)

Kennedy volunteered his endorsement of U.S. efforts at Geneva in a press conference held shortly after the American delegation offered its plan to the 17-nation disarmament conference. But reporters peppered the president with questions about nuclear testing, an issue in deadlock at Geneva while the U.S. prepares to follow Soviet suit by resuming its air shots. Kennedy said on this point:

1. No specific date has been set for the start of the U.S. test series, to be held in the Pacific, but the general timing remains as Kennedy previously announced. This schedule calls for the first explosion before the end of this month — or within some 10 days.

2. "Of course we shall proceed" with testing unless the Soviet Union agrees to the Western proposal for a test — ban treaty with international inspections.

Divorces Stalled As House Rises

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 24th Parliament adjourned for the last time at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday night.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he will see Governor-General Vanier today to recommend formal dissolution to make way for election of a new Parliament June 18.

Parliament ended with a final plea from Mr. Diefenbaker that the New Democratic Party group permit passage of 227 divorce petitions.

MOVED ADJOURNMENT

Thereupon Veterans Minister Churchhill, government house leader, moved formal adjournment to April 26. Naming a date is only a formality and does not mean that Parliament will resume sittings next week.

The House will come to its end with dissolution which will follow Prime Minister Diefenbaker's trip to Quebec City today where the Governor-General is in residence at the Citadel for Easter.

Columbia Plan Hailed

Prairie Expert Backs Export

A Manitoba power expert yesterday advocated a hydro-electric development program for his province which is almost identical to B.C. government power policies.

W. D. Fallis, general manager of Manitoba Hydro, said Manitoba should export its surplus power to the U.S. on the same sort of terms as B.C. is proposing to sell Columbia downstream benefits to Bonneville Power Administration.

This would enable Manitoba to develop 4,500,000 kilowatts of power years ahead of the time it would be economically justified for provincial consumption.

IDENTICAL TO B.C.

His proposals, outlined to the Pacific Northwest Public Power Association convention here, are identical to the B.C. thinking on provincial power development.

Mr. Fallis said he could foresee no problems in recapturing the exported power when it was eventually needed in Manitoba and said the B.C. "two-river" development program "seems to be logical."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four directors were removed from the board of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. at its annual meeting Wednesday at the demand of chairman J. V. Clyne.

Mr. Clyne said the four, representing the Brooks - Scanlon-Powell family interests and all directors of the Powell River Company prior to its merger with MacMillan Bloedel, had sought to interest a select group of directors in delivering control of the company into the hands of a giant United States competitor, the St. Regis Paper Corp.

FINAL REMNANTS

LAST MEMBERS DROPPED

Dropped from the board were:

Conley Brooks, director of MB and PR since the merger and grandson of Dr. D. F. Brooks, who helped found Powell in 1911;

J. E. Sample, grandson of another Powell founder, M. J. Scanlon;

MANAGING DIRECTOR

G. W. O'Brien, son of Joseph Manning O'Brien, a former managing director of Brooks, Scanlon, O'Brien, Co. Ltd., of Vancouver;

Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, whose father-in-law, Norman Laing, was on the original board of directors of Powell River and managing director of the company from 1911 until his death in 1928.

By PETER BRUTON

Premier Bennett last night strengthened reports of an impending provincial election with a pledge that removal of Lower Mainland bridge tolls was "now very close at hand."

The government's first step, he told the Vancouver Board of Trade, would be to remove tolls from the Second Narrows Bridge and donate Lions Gate Bridge as a free gift to the cities and municipalities concerned.

Observers took this as a government move to bolster sagging Social Credit support in the Vancouver area.

BENEFIT THOUSANDS

Removal of bridge tolls would benefit countless thousands of Vancouver voters.

Speculation that Ottawa would agree to B.C. demands on Columbia River development in the next few days came close on the heels of the report that Premier Bennett is prepared to call a provincial election before the June 18 federal poll.

AWAIT WORD

B.C. government officials were anxiously awaiting word from Ottawa that an agreement would be reached shortly.

Any agreement which would allow B.C. to start actual construction of the Columbia project under terms of the U.S.-Canadian treaty would obviate the necessity for a provincial election, officials said.

B.C. ADAMANT

Attorney-General Bonner strengthened the hope that an agreement was near when he said the possibility of a major understanding now exists.

It is understood that B.C. is remaining adamant in its stand that Columbia downstream benefits be sold in the U.S. at the equivalent of five mills.

'MODIFICATION'

On the other hand Ottawa is attempting to make it clear that there has been a "modification" in the B.C. stand which makes agreement possible.

The agreement between the two governments could be an undertaking that the Conservatives, if re-elected, will ratify the treaty.

REQUESTS AID

This would enable work to start on the Columbia by the summer.

In his speech last night the premier said B.C. has requested Ottawa to give financial aid so that tolls may be removed along the route of the Trans-Canada Highway.

"We have reason to believe we will gain this co-operation," he said.

SECOND BRIDGE

At the same time he said that if the municipalities accepted the government's offer of Lions Gate Bridge as a gift and that it was decided some time in the future to build a second bridge at First Narrows the government would pay one-third of the cost.

Cancer Drama

Danger Lies Everywhere

By RON POULTON and KEN MacTAGGART
(Third in a Series)

So many real and suspected cancer-causing agents are encountered in everyday life only one conclusion is possible. You'll be fine if you don't breathe, don't drink, don't eat and don't work.

As science accelerates its search for these agents, a conclusion remains: some people are more cancer-prone than others.

NAME A FEW

Today, the list includes sailors, asbestos weavers, people who handle tar and pitch, others who work in plants making insecticides, luminous paints, dyes, nickel and chrome products and mineral oils, to name a few.

The Lawyers' Medical Cyclopedia lists almost every conceivable occupation (except lawyers) as a risk. Apparently no carcinogenic agent lurks in dusty legal tomes.

ONE OF MANY

Under those coming in contact with arsenic—which is only one of many carcinogenic agents—the cyclopedia names 72 occupations which are suspected of running a risk. All the way from airplane pilots to artificial flower makers to felt hat carriers.

Now you a life in the open air, and in lists under groups recognized as exposed to arsenic: farmers, fur handlers and preparers, insecticide sprayers and dusts, miners of arsenic and copper ore, winery and vineyard workers.

ASPHALT ROADS

Go for a walk, and the Ohio State Medical Journal warns: "Dust from asphalt paved roads has been incriminated as carcinogenic."

Reach into the refrigerator for sardines, and the U.S. Public Health Service cautions that, of some 800 to 1,000 food additives investigated, many contain suspected carcinogens and some have been labelled definitely dangerous.

Some synthetic mucilages, thickeners, stabilizers, flavoring and coloring agents, synthetic sweeteners, preservatives and glazes are suspected.

WASHINGTON (AP)—

Spruille Braden, a former United States ambassador to Cuba, said yesterday an invasion by U.S. military forces is the only way to rid the Caribbean country of communism.

Braden told the Senate foreign relations committee in a prepared statement that approval of President Kennedy's 10-year, $2,000,000,000 Alliance for Progress program of aid to Latin American countries would be "a criminal waste of the taxpayers' money."

Too Bed

ACCRA (Reuters)—President Nkrumah Wednesday fired Krobe Edusei as Ghana's industries minister and took over the ministry himself.

The move was the climax of a wave of criticism against Edusei since the news of his wife Mary had paid $2,000 to London furniture store for a gold-plated bed.

The official announcement said the government had also taken over the new Mansion Edusei had built for himself on the outskirts of Accra.

WINNIPEG (CP)—A police interview of a Winnipeg schoolboy has been termed a mistake by the RCMP and Justice Minister Fulton.

Alex (Sandy) Lamb, 15, was questioned by an RCMP officer at Vincent Massey High School here last Feb. 19 about his political beliefs.

Mrs. Mildred Lamb, the boy's mother, said the half-hour interview occurred a month after the publication of a letter from Alex in the Winnipeg Tribune.

The satirical letter attacking a right-wing viewpoint suggested that Santa Claus was a Communist because he distributed free gifts.

Quoting her son, Mrs. Lamb said that the RCMP officer, dressed in plain clothes, had branded her and her husband as subversives.

Alex was told that the RCMP would make a point of branding him a security risk to any prospective employer unless he "sounded his parents' beliefs."

Mrs. Lamb said she sent a letter of complaint to Mr. Fulton. In Vancouver Tuesday Mr. Fulton was quoted as saying that a letter of apology has been sent to Mrs. Lamb.

Later in Winnipeg, RCMP

Superintendent J. S. Cruikshank said the boy was mistakenly interviewed by a junior officer.

"We have to get the authority of the parents before we can interview a juvenile," he said, "and we cannot do it at schools."

No formal disciplinary action has been taken against the officer, but he has "been told very definitely what our policy is."

Answering a reporter's questions, Mrs. Lamb described herself as a "worker for peace" and it was nobody's business but her own whether or not she was a Communist.

Bombing Ordered Say Sons

NELSON (CP)—The fraternal council of the Doukhobor Sons of Freedom set off a bombing mission that ended abortively in the death of 17-year-old Harry Kootnikoff, an assault court jury was told Wednesday.

Fireball Strikes Utah

brilliant "fireball" flashed through western skies last night and apparently crashed in mountainous country south of Eureka, Utah.

The residents of this small town said they saw a "blue flash" and heard "a rumbling off in the distance" immediately afterward. Police Chief Joseph Bernini said the crash was "very close" to the community.

Foes 'May Work Something Out' On Columbia Before Vote—Green

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said it "may be possible to work something out" by way of federal-provincial agreement on the giant Columbia River project between now and the general election June 18.

But nothing could be done about ratification of the treaty with the United States until a new Parliament was convened, the minister said. Told of reports B.C.'s Premier Bennett might call a provincial election

if there was no federal action, Mr. Green gave a non-committal wave of his hand and said:

"I can't help that. We're running the government of Canada, not British Columbia."

Repudiation 'Sure'

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Her-ridge, House leader of the O.C.F., predicted Wednesday that the federal government will repudiate the Columbia River Treaty with the United States before the June 18 federal election.

"I have it on good information that the government will ask for a renegotiation of the treaty before the election," he said.
